SEA VETERAN DEFENDED BY U. OF C. HEAD

President by Wire and Letter Answers Legislators; Refuses to Cancel Invitation to Charter Day Orator

University Chief Declares the Views Given in Attacks On Admiral Are Untrue; Calls Him High American Type

Questioning both their accuracy of knowledge of the official life of Admiral Sims and of the judgment of the type of man who may inspire the young people of this country, President David P. Barrows today sent a lengthy reply to the members of the state legislature, who are protesting against the appearance of Sims as the Charter Day orator at the university.

President Barrows declines to withdraw Sims from the program. President Barrows refutes the allegation that Admiral Sims is not from a family of American ancestry and cites testimony taken before the naval committee of the United States Senate to show that he is a descendant of an American family that may be traced back to pre-Revolutionary times.

Since the agitation against Sims is supposed to originate with the Irish element in the legislature, Barrows takes pains to remark that the attitude of the legislators can only rebound to the discredit of the Irish cause.

REFERS TO SERVICES OF NAVY VETERAN.

"It is no service to the Irish nation," Barrows declared, "to identify it with these misguided friends of our foes. The Irish cause, which commands the sympathy of the great body of American people, is injured by such an identification, and also, may I say, by such assaults as you and your associates have made upon the most distinguished naval commander which this country had in the war, upon one whose energy in prosecuting the war never relaxed for one moment, and whose lifelong endeavor has been to advance the efficiency of the American navy and preserve its morale."

Also on these grounds and these exclusively that I invited Admiral Sims to be the Charter Day speaker and, contrary to the presentment expressed in your telegram, I have the utmost confidence that what he says to the students of this university on that occasion will inspire them to be better Americans as well as better men and women."

ANSWER SENT BY WIRE AND MAIL.

The following is the telegram sent to Senator Canepa: "Telegram from yourself and other gentlemen in California Legislature acknowledged. My invitation to Admiral Sims was extended in knowledge that he had been twice reprimanded for expressing political opinions. These appear, however, as minor incidents in a career of exceptional distinction, and cannot justify depriving him of the nation's gratitude or this university's respectful tribute for services both before and during the war. Also am familiar with his controversy with the Secretary of the Navy over the question of naval preparedness, but testimony taken before Senate committee on this matter sustains Admiral Sims' position and the judgment of those best informed overwhelmingly supports him. The language of your statement of these matters to me does not appear to accord in several respects with information published in the press."

Are you sure that you have been correctly informed? Please see my letter which follows.

Admiral Sims' outspoken denunciation of those who opposed the operations of our forces and who gave aid and comfort to our enemies needs no defense and his outright hostility to such individuals should not be interpreted as prejudice against the land of which they were natives. Please see his own statements in his book entitled "The Victory at Sea," published with the official approval of Secretary Daniels, dated June 26, 1919. See Appendix Number One of book.

DAVID P. BARROWS.

OPPOSITION HELD TO BE MISINFORMED

The following is Dr. Barrows' letter:

My dear Senator Canepa: I am telegraphing you this morning in reply to the telegram from yourself and other gentlemen in the legislature, addressed to me, and protesting against the appearance of Admiral Sims as Charter Day orator tomorrow. I

GIRL'S ASSAILANT HUNTED BY MANY

Armed Poses and Citizens Join in Pursuit of Accused Motorist

NAPA, March 22.—Armed posses of sheriff's officers, police and citizen volunteers are still afield today after an all-night search throughout the region north of the bay for the assailant of an eight-year-old Napa girl, whom he picked up in his automobile while she was on her way to school from home during the lunch hour yesterday.

In automobiles, on motorcycles and on horseback men scoured the hills and valleys in all directions yesterday afternoon and last night seeking a trace of the man, who was described by the little girl as tall, thin, dark complexioned and as having a face covered with freckles. From what she said the officers believe he is a painter, as she said his shoes and clothes were splashed with paint or plaster.

Precautions were taken to guard as many outlets from this part of the state as possible, including the Richmond, San Pablo, Vallejo and Benicia ferries. The man is still at large today, and no clue has been obtained as to the direction he has taken.

According to the little girl, whose name is being withheld, the stranger, in a cheap, light roadster, offered to give her a ride as far as her school. Instead of taking her to the school, he drove with her to Brown's valley, four miles west of Napa. Afterward he brought her back and set her down in the case of a woman's care.

Phil Riley and Jake Croter Fight In Capital Hotel

SACRAMENTO, March 22.—The lobby of the Hotel Sacramento, rendezvous for legislators, was turned late on an arena last night when Assemblyman "Jake" Croter, well-known baseball referee, and Philip Riley, publisher of an obscure Eastbay publication, engaged in a manly altercation, in the course of which Riley is said to have received several blows in the face.

According to eye-witnesses Croter was "severely punishing his opponent" when other guests in the lobby rushed in to separate the men. According to the version of those who witnessed the affair Croter said that he was seated in a meeting of club women who were discussing the Industrial Home at Sonoma, when Riley passed. The latter thereupon, it is said, remarked something to the general effect that "Croter was sitting in at a hen party." Thereupon, according to the eye-witnesses, Croter went up to Riley, asked him the nature of his remarks, and the fight was on.

REPORT TELLS OF INDIAN BATTLE

Redskins Are Said to Have Repulsed Attack of Posse in Narrow Canyon

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, March 22.—The posse has surrounded a band of the Plute Indians in the wild country 26 miles southwest of Blanding and is closing in upon them. A battle is expected to take place today.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, March 22.—Much anxiety was felt here today as little information has come through regarding a battle supposed to be in progress between the Indians and white settlers near Blanding. Fear that the Utes may join the Plutes in the uprising has been expressed by citizens of Blanding now in Salt Lake.

Arms and ammunition have been rushed to Blanding from Monticello. The battle is said to be in progress about twenty miles from Blanding in and about a narrow canyon, following a brief skirmish last night in which the Indians repulsed the posse attack.

"Old Dutch" veteran Indian warrior was seriously wounded. The report stated. One buck was shot and killed in a previous engagement.

The recalcitrant braves, who took to the mountains, followed by posse, after liberating two young Indians who were jailed on a charge of stealing sheep, have entrenched themselves in strongholds near Blanding, the report said.

Although fifty of the renegades rounded up yesterday were held in the county jail, it is believed that the number of renegades has grown. Rep's here were that a number of dissatisfied braves from the reservations had joined the malcontents in the mountains.

The United States marshal was en route today to Blanding. He will make the trip from Thompson, nearest railroad point, by stage coach. The roads are almost impassable.

WAR FLARES OVER PIGGLY WIGGLY DEAL

Wall Street Bears Will Fight Proposal of Saunders for a Settlement of $2,750,000 in Payment by the Shorts

NEW YORK, March 22.—The governing committee of the New York Stock Exchange today passed a resolution striking Piggly Wiggly Stores, Inc., class "A" common stock, from the list. This action was taken, says a statement from the exchange, as it had become to the committee on the stock list, which so reported to the governing committee that there was such a concentration of holdings of Piggly Wiggly class "A" common stock as to make impossible a free market for the stock.

NEW YORK, March 22.—(United Press.)—Wall street bears caught short Piggly Wiggly Wall Street, the president of the company, for a settlement of $150 a share by 3 p. m., or $275 after that, it was announced this afternoon.

Simultaneously, it appeared that the Piggly Wiggly "war" has broken out afresh over brokers' counters. Quoted prices for the stock skyrocketed again, one sale being reported at $145 a share.

One hundred shares changed hands in this deal.

BY UNITED PRESS.

LEARNED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

NEW YORK, March 22.—Speculators who are still short will pay Clarence Saunders, Memphis, a penalty of $2,750,000, as a penalty for "flooding" the New York stock exchange, brokers and Wall street observers estimated today.

Saunders, in giving "the street" until 3 p. m. today to settle for $150 a share on 25,000 shares he claims are still short to him, on delivery, would collect a margin of $110 a share, on the basis of the $40 a share for which the stock was selling when he began operations a few days ago.

If the "shorts" refuse to settle on this basis and Saunders carries out his threat to put the price at $250 after 3 p. m. and collect through the courts, the total profit, of course, will be doubled. In addition to the amount Saunders claims is still unsettled, millions of dollars are involved in his favor in increased value of the stock because of its more than doubling in price. There are also thousands of shares of the 25,000 shares he claims still at marginal accounts to others, it is claimed.

RAZOR TO THROAT, SAYS SAUNDERS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 22.—(By Associated Press.)—Clarence Saunders, Memphis, grocerman and head of Piggly Wiggly Stores, Inc., today declared:

"A razor to my throat, figuratively speaking, is why I suddenly without warning kicked the posse from under Wall Street."

"It was strictly a question of whether I should survive and likewise my position and the fortunes of my friends or whether I should be kicked and pointed to as the 'boob' from Tennessee," he said.

Saunders, who came to Memphis as a grocery salesman, and attained wealth on his idea of a self-service grocery store, christened Piggly Wiggly, asserts in his statement that he now owns 100,000 of the outstanding 200,000 shares of the corporation, 100,000 of which he accumulated within the last few days.

Thus the situation stood today with the next move necessarily to come from Saunders, who, Saunders asserts, are sold "short" to the extent of 25,000 shares.

ONE SHOT, 8 HELD IN RUM RUNNER RAID

Long Beach Corporation Head and Aides Are Jailed; Booze Valued at $20,000 Taken From Landing Party

LONG BEACH, March 22.—(By International News Service.)—One man was probably killed, eight others, including three prominent officials of a beach canning company, were arrested, and five automobiles, a motor fishing launch and a consignment of liquor valued at more than $20,000 were seized in a surprise raid by local police today on an alleged rum running expedition.

The man said to have been killed was a Japanese lieutenant on the launch which was captured. In an effort to prevent the man and a companion from fleeing with the launch, the officers fired several charges of buckshot at them. One man was seen to fall into the water by the side of the boat. A search was immediately launched by the police for the missing man's body.

The three officials of the canning company arrested were: Alexander B. Stewart, president of the Curtis Fish Cannery; Gilbert C. Leary, general manager, and Victor Lord, sales manager of the same company, according to the police. One hundred and sixteen cases of bonded liquors, believed to have been smuggled from Vancouver, were being unloaded from the fishing launch when it was fired upon.

When the officers swooped down on the men.

According to the officers, the arrest of the eight men is believed to be the uncovering of one of the largest liquor "rings" on the west coast, and may be the source through which much liquor is said to be furnished to Hollywood.

1000 GALLONS NABBED IN MARTINEZ RAID

MARTINEZ, March 22.—One thousand gallons of assorted liquors, ranging from low grade "blackness" brandy to wine to 16-year-old brandy, were found and confiscated last night in the home of a Martinez, Colo., resident.

Colombia and his brother, Louis Colombia, and Phillip Reed, were held in the city prison over night failing to furnish bail. All of them refused to plead guilty to the charge of violation of the Volstead act. Two huge stills and 3000 gallons of mash also were found in the house and confiscated.

Six other persons, including two women, arrested in the same series of raids, pleaded guilty and were fined a total of $1525 in court this morning. They were: Steve Fowler, Teresa Galli, S. Compagno, Mrs. R. Della Rosa, P. Martiniaci and John Lavello. Each was fined $300 for sale and possession of illegal liquor, except Lavello, who was fined $25 for possession only.

$50,000 IN LIQUOR TAKEN ON LA. RANCH

LOS ANGELES, March 22.—(By International News Service.)—Three men were arrested and 50,000 gallons of liquor valued at $50,000 were confiscated by police officers of Lankershim early today when they uncovered three of the largest stills ever found in Southern California, on a ranch near Sherman way. The three men gave the names of James Rodriguez, Jesse of the ranch; Sorreva Colozed and J. Rohito.

Britons Plead Air Supremacy; France Feared

Hostility Toward England Is Charged; Paris' Expenditures Rapped.

LONDON, March 22.—(By the Associated Press.)—The debate on air defense in the House of Lords last night attracts much notice from the press, most of the morning newspapers giving it great prominence, while some comment approvingly upon the opinion voiced by various speakers over Great Britain's inferiority in the air.

The newspapers point out that this anxiety does not imply a hostile or suspicious attitude towards France, although the extreme vulnerability of Great Britain to an attack by a French air fleet and the great disparity in the respective air forces of the two nations, make comparison inevitable.

FRENCH HOSTILITY TO BRITAIN CHARGED

The general conclusion is that there is ample justification for uneasiness over the country's defenselessness and that the inequality is too dangerous to be allowed to continue.

The Chronicle, one of the severest critics of the French Ruhr policy, goes further than its contemporaries when it declares that although there is no British hostility toward France, there is certainly French hostility toward Great Britain.

Lord Birkhead, during the hour debate, demanded a new power standard for the air, as well as for the navy, and commented on the fact that France was able to spend enormously on air defense while owing large sums to England, which apparently there was no prospect of her paying, at any rate in the near future.

ACTS OF FAITH SCORNED AS NATION'S DEFENSE

Viscount Haldane emphasized England's defenselessness against a short-range air attack.

Lord Carson, referring to the European situation, said he had no more confidence in international politics concerning what might happen in Europe in the future. He objected to basing the nation's defenses on any act of faith.

Viscount Grey feared that unless through the League of Nations or otherwise some sense of security could be obtained in Europe, it would be impossible to rest content with the present position of England and its inability to defend itself against possible attack from the air.

Sorrie was taken to his home, but neighbors were unable to procure

BERLIN, March 22.—"I shall never beg France for negotiations for a Ruhr settlement," declared Chancellor Cuno of Germany today in the first comprehensive interview he has granted since the French occupied the Ruhr in January.

"I shall make no new offer now proposed to France so long as the French hold the bayonet at Germany's throat and grind her brutal, military heel on the economic heart of our fatherland."

"Premier Poincare himself," the chancellor declared, "blocked all avenues toward offers and negotiations, by his demand for unconditional surrender. He said: 'I do not want to negotiate. I do not want intervention. Germany must come to me first and make unconditional surrender.'"

COMPLETE AMNESTY FOR PRISONERS DEMANDED

Chancellor Cuno said that complete amnesty for all those whom the French imprisoned, deported or expelled is one of the fundamental conditions for peace.

The correspondent asked:

"Am I to understand then, Mr. Chancellor, that your government has not and will not make any new offer to France under the present circumstances?"

Cuno replied:

"That is correct."

ADDONS DAPK SIMS IN LETTER TO LEGISLATORS

University President Charges
Veteran's Record Has Been Misrepresented.

I enclose a confirming copy of my telegram.

Referring to the language of your protest, which seems to me to be inexact and to distort the facts of Admiral Sims' career, will you permit me to make a further statement and to ask for more specific information than that contained in your telegram?

You do not specify the form or the occasion of the "insults to the American people and the Congress of the United States," which you allege. I am not aware of any incident in Admiral Sims' career which by any possible interpretation could be construed to justify your language.

ACCURACY OF FOES' STATEMENT QUESTIONED

I am not aware that Admiral Sims was ever "condemned" by President Taft. He was reprimanded for official indiscretion, but this is a very different matter from being condemned. Naval officers, like other Americans, cannot be officially condemned except as the result of a judicial trial. Admiral Sims has never

New Attack on Sims Made by Assemblyman

SACRAMENTO, March 22.—Following the defeat yesterday of their attempt to secure assembly action on the resolution opposing Admiral Sims' appearance as charter day orator at the University of California, the sixteen opponents of Sims in the assembly wired the following protest to President David P. Barrows of the university:

We, the undersigned, members of the California legislature, respectfully protest the appearance of William S. Sims, as Charter Day orator, University of California, next Friday. We believe the choice is ill-timed and in bad taste. Mr. Sims hardly reflects the type of American who, we think, should address the youth of this state on such an occasion.

We represent a constituency of over one million citizens and taxpayers and we respectfully insist that a person who insults the American people, the Congress of the United States and who has received the condemnation of the nation through the then President Taft; who has been reprimanded officially by the Secretary of the Navy, Von Meyer; who has been called home from been tried for any offense whatever.

You state that Secretary Daniels characterized Admiral Sims as "an enemy of his country." I have not been aware that Secretary Daniels ever used such an expression. If he used

England and again reprimanded by Secretary Denby and who has been characterized by former Secretary Daniels as an enemy of his country, has not earned the proud privilege of addressing your students.

Mr. Sims has stated that no attention should be paid to resolutions of the Congress and the Senate because they were a lot of jackasses. He has proclaimed himself pro-British and he has by unanimous vote of the United States Senate been ordered reprimanded. He therefore surely does not represent the type of Americanism handed down to us by the fathers of this great country. We beg to assure you of our high regard for the future of the University and our earnest hope for a substitution of a speaker more representative of the nation's ideal.

Members of California Legislature.

It, while he was Secretary of the Navy, and your telegram states that this language was used by "Secretary Daniels," then I would say that Mr. Daniels, holding such a belief and having reason for such a belief, was recreant to his duty in not having such a terrible charge judicially determined when it was within his power as Secretary of the Navy and Admiral Sims chief to do so.

As to Sims' reflections upon Congress, I have before me the press reports of the correspondence in the month of June, 1921, between Secretary Denby and Admiral Sims. I note that in Secretary Denby's telegram of June 8 he quotes to Admiral Sims a press report of the Admiral's utterances which might justify the purpose of your allegation. But I also note that after investigation, Secretary Denby, in his letter of reprimand, omits all reference to this matter. The unavoidable inference is that investigation did not sustain this charge.

I have no information in support of your allegation that the United States Senate ever took action condemnatory of Admiral Sims. I am quite sure that the Senate has no constitutional power to take the action your allegation attributes to it. I know of nothing that Admiral Sims has ever said or done which could be characterized as being pro-British in the sense of being un-American. In common with the Americans he believes in taking advantage of British friendship and of good opinion of America, to further American security and influence in the world. As commander of American naval forces in European waters he actively sought to co-operate with the British fleet in pursuit of a common enemy. Will you please consult the volume "Hearings before the Senate Committee on Naval Affairs," Volume I, page 17, following.

ANCESTRY OF NAVY VETERAN IS TOLD.

You state in your protest to me that Admiral Sims "does not represent the type of Americanism handed down to us by the fathers of this great country." I noticed in the vicinity of the Legislature a few days ago that there was an attempt made to make it appear that Admiral Sims was of foreign extraction. I think it time that this distortion of facts should cease.

The family of Admiral Sims is of American ancestry from pre-Revolutionary times. The fact that the home of his mother's family was in Canada and that he was there born should not be used to misrepresent the fact that he is of typically American stock, long resident in the States. Again, please see the testimony before the Naval Committee of the United States Senate.

ATTACK ON IRISH PEOPLE DENIED.

Finally, may I call attention to the fact that Admiral Sims has never assailed the Irish people. His indignation as expressed in all that he has ever said or written was reserved for certain individuals in the vicinity of Queenstown, his naval headquarters, who attacked American sailors and who were working with misguided zeal for German success and whose effort was to nullify our naval participation in the war and rob this nation of the victory upon which it was determined. It is no service to the Irish nation to identify it with these misguided friends of our foes.

The Irish cause which commands the sympathy of the great body of the American people, is injured by such an assault as you and your associates have made upon the most distinguished naval commander which this country had in the war—upon one whose energies in prosecuting the war never relaxed for one moment, and whose lifelong endeavor has been to advance the efficiency of the American navy and preserve its morale.

It is on these grounds and these exclusively that I invited Admiral Sims to be the Charter Day speaker and contrary to which presentiments expressed in your telegram, I have the utmost confidence that what he says to the students of this university on that occasion will inspire them to be better Americans as well as better men and women.

Respectfully yours,
DAVID P. BARROWS.

ADMIRAL SIMS FACES BATTERIES OF CAMERA MEN

Poses for Newspaper Men,
But Refuses to Talk of Attacks.

With a protest against his appearance as the Charter day speaker by sixteen members of the California legislature in the hands of the president of the University of California, Rear Admiral William S. Sims, U. S. N., retired, unmoved by the attacks on him, today made the final preparations for his address to the university students tomorrow. The admiral spent a quiet day in his suite in the Hotel Oakland, receiving a few friends, and made no reply to his opponents.

Admiral Sims arrived in Oakland yesterday afternoon. He plans to visit in the San Francisco bay district for about a week, during which time he will be the guest of the University of California and then he will go to Fresno and Los Angeles to speak before student assemblies in those cities.

While he does not intend to answer any of the attacks on him in his talk tomorrow, Admiral Sims announced that before he left California he would have plenty to say on the subject.

GREETINGS FOR SEA VETERAN AND WIFE.

When Admiral and Mrs. Sims arrived here they were greeted by many friends and representatives of the press. Mrs. Sims was swept into the arms of two of her cousins, Mrs. Atherton Macdonald and Mrs. Edwin Breyfogle, both residents of Oakland.

While Admiral Sims was accommodating enough about posing for photographs, he confined his statements to the press entirely to generalities.

"All I have to say about international affairs, national policies, the Pacific Coast and the naval base will be brought out in the various addresses I intend to make in California," said the admiral. "I intend to talk about many conditions bearing upon the Pacific Coast, and of the place this community occupies in international affairs, but it will all be with reference to naval matters."

"Am I familiar with the Alameda naval base project? I have been familiar with it as long as I have been in the navy. But I shall not speak about that subject either until I address the Oakland Chamber of Commerce. Right now the naval base project is merely a local issue since it involves only the question as to where it is to be located."

When a group of camera men asked him to pose, he took the photography business seriously in hand and in no time had the staff of photographers working as an efficient unit.

"Line up over there and I'll stand here where the sun doesn't make me squint," the admiral ordered.

The photographers, jumped with all the alertness of a midshipman at a call from the bridge.

Admiral Sims faced the group and said:

"Let 'er go!"

A battery of cameras barked at one.

The performance was repeated several times with Sims issuing commands and the cameramen executing them promptly.

in contrast with her tall, aggressive husband.

MESSAGE TO STUDENTS ADMIRAL WILL GIVE.

"The message I will give to the students of the university," Admiral Sims continued, "is a message of life as I have found it. I will speak to them from the standpoint of my own experience as a college student. I believe in a college education for both boys and girls. My girls are going to college when they are old enough. I shall not send them to a co-educational college, not that I do not believe in this type of college but because the institution I have in mind is especially suited for them.

"We have had a very successful trip. It is very good to see your students, especially in the snows of the divide and being frozen in in New England for several months."

Frank Stephens, secretary to President David P. Barrows of the University of California, met Admiral Sims and his wife at Port Costa and rode with them on the train to Oakland. Upon arriving here he escorted them to the Hotel Oakland, where they will make their headquarters during their stay in the Eastbay cities.

Admiral Sims said he knew practically nothing about this state as it was when he was in California here was in 1895, when he passed through here on the way to the Orient. Mrs. Sims was in California twenty years ago as a member of President McKinley's party.

$450,000 BLIND SCHOOL FUND IS GIVEN APPROVAL

Bill to Provide New Building for Home Promptly Reported.

TRIBUNE BUREAU, SACRAMENTO, March 22.—The special bill, appropriating $450,000 for new buildings at the State School and Home for the Blind Children at Berkeley, and $50,000 for a hospital for that institution, was received with acclamation when it was introduced to the assembly committee on education last night. Within five minutes of its presentation the measure was reported out to the committee on Ways and Means with an emphatic "do pass" recommendation. Minor bills for special reading books for the blind and for a kindergarten, received the same enthusiastic support.

PASSAGE EXPECTED. It is believed that the bills for the blind will meet with the same reception in the finance committees of both houses, and eventually in the senate and assembly, whereupon the matter will be up to the governor and Board of Control.

The bill was introduced by Mrs. Anna L. Saylor of Berkeley, who is leading the fight for the blind together with Assemblyman Chris Fox of Berkeley and Senator Arthur H. Broad of Piedmont in the senate. Assemblyman P. G. Stevenson of Carson Hill, a member of the committee, expressed the belief that Governor Richardson will "do the right thing" by these little blind children. He said: "But I believe that we should go further than that, and put our blind school on a basis second to none in the United States. In that case it would favor a bond issue for a large amount. Such a measure would pass the legislature, and the generous people of the state would do the rest, be assured of that. The people of this state are fundamentally sound, and their heart is in the right place."

Among those who appeared before the committee were Dr. French, director of the Berkeley school, and Miss Kate M. Foley, home teacher of the blind for the California State Library, herself one of those afflicted with blindness and a former pupil of the school for the blind in Berkeley.

CHANGES AT SCHOOL URGED. "I feel that the need of these buildings is imperative, that the health of the children demands better, more sanitary housing. I feel, too, that the food of the children cannot be prepared properly in such large quantities and that the cottage plan is eminently desirable so that proper food be prepared for the children of various ages. As it is, the food for three hundred children is prepared and served at one time."

"I also feel that it is a detriment to both the deaf and blind to longer continue under the same roof. Their condition and requirements are entirely unlike. To not assist the blind and being in the majority they are given the advantage in every way. This discrimination may be unwitting, but it is inevitable. The best schools for the blind in the country are not dual schools. It is an antiquated custom to educate the deaf and the blind together."

Attempt to Cut Budget Hearings Are Blocked

By E. VAN LIER RIBBINK.

TRIBUNE BUREAU, SACRAMENTO, March 22.—The administration today brought pressure to bear to curb several of its ultra-enthusiastic followers, who stood ready with motions asking that the public hearings on the budget, which have now been going on for more than two weeks, be discontinued.

Assemblyman Henry Carter of Los Angeles, floor leader of the assembly, recently introduced one motion for the discontinuance of the hearings, but the proposal went over until the following day and nothing more was heard of it. Then Assemblyman E. H. Christian of Hayward, another administration supporter, gave notice that he would introduce a motion to stop the budget hearings which, he charged, "were rapidly making a farce of the legislature's proceedings." Christian's motion likewise failed to materialize.

NO MUZZLES SAYS MERRIAM. Today I was informed by Frank F. Merriam of Long Beach, speaker of the assembly, that "the hearings will go on until they get all they want of it." Speaker Merriam declared, however, that the end of the prolonged debate is in sight, and that "the budget hearings will be terminated at once." However, he said, "neither the speaker of the assembly nor the administration have any wish to 'muzzle' these hearings."

It was announced that approximately twenty more heads of departments and others are on the list of those who have asked to be heard before the joint budget committees of the senate and assembly. However, it is expected that as soon as the educational budget hearings are out of the way, it will be possible to take five of these speakers, or thereabouts, and which would verify the speaker's prediction that the hearings will terminate this week, or, at the latest, in the middle of the next week.

Assemblyman Hugh Pomeroy said: "At this rate of speed we are getting nowhere. Very few bills, comparatively speaking, are coming out of committee, because the budget takes up the whole afternoon. By the time the budget hearings are over, assemblymen, senators and attaches are all weary and fatigued, and whatever committee meetings are held at night show the effect of this."

ERRORS IN BUDGET. At the last budget hearing, Mrs. Nellie E. Pierce, author of the bill, admitted in response to questions by Senator H. C. Nelson that she had overlooked two sources of revenue, totalling $635,000, and that she would immediately turn these amounts back into the quota of available funds. The omitted items proved to be $355,000 for veterans' vocational work, contributed by the Federal government in recognition of a similar allowance by the state this week, and $280,000 per capita allowance of junior college students.

The mystery of the "missing" $919,000, which, according to Superintendent of Public Instruction Will C. Wood, ought to be available for teachers' colleges and special schools, and which, Wood states, is "hidden somewhere in the folds of the elementary schools' appropriation in excess of the requirements of these schools, has not yet been cleared up, and legislators profess that they now understand even less about this matter than ever.

SPENCE BILL DEBATE. There was a battle in the assembly over various bills introduced by Oakland and Alameda legislators. The lawyers in the assembly, of whom there are twenty-one, figured most prominently in this debate, since it dealt with Assemblyman Homer Spence's bill permitting a judge to set aside under certain prescribed circumstances, the verdicts of juries in civil cases. The bill was carried through its third reading after a prolonged battle, in the course of which it was charged by opposition lawyers that it would vest extraordinary power in judges and that it placed the burden of appeal on the litigant.

Assemblyman F. E. Eward of Burlingame, who, together with Assemblyman Henry Carter and S. L. Reisinger, opposed the measure, went so far as to declare that it "invested the judges with all the powers of a czar."

Other lawyers, however, came to the assistance of the measure and

HARBOR DISTRICT BILL INTRODUCED FOR BERKELEY

Measure Provides Way for Development of City Waterfront.

TRIBUNE BUREAU, SACRAMENTO, March 22.—An enabling act, specially drawn to enable the city of Berkeley to proceed with its plans for the forming of a harbor district, and to develop its port facilities, has been introduced in the Assembly by Assemblyman Chris Fox and Assemblywoman Mrs. Anna Saylor of Berkeley. The bill, which is the outcome of conferences between these legislators and Mayor Louis Bartlett of Berkeley and City Attorney Lemuel Sanderson, and which has been drafted with the advice of authorities on marine shipping and port development, reads as follows:

An act to authorize and provide for the formation of municipal harbor districts by cities, cities and counties, and unincorporated territory for the purpose of improving, repairing and maintaining their harbors and for the construction of wharves and piers, seawalls, state or municipal railroad and spurs therealong, betterments, appurtenances, dredging and filling, necessary in connection therewith, and granting powers to said districts which are necessary or convenient to accomplish said purposes, and to authorize such districts to levy and collect taxes for the purpose of providing a fund therefor, and to authorize such districts to issue and sell their bonds, to create a fund for such repair, maintenance and improvement, and construction of any part thereof.

The people of the State of California do enact as follows:

At the time of the creation of such district it may include a part or all of said city, or city and county, and the boundaries of such district shall be determined by the governing body of such city, or city and county; and the district may be enlarged by said governing body so as to include any territory contiguous thereto, provided that any city or city and county, or unincorporated territory not in such district at the time of its creation may be annexed thereto as provided in Subsection 5 of Section 6, Chapter 218, Statutes of 1911.

DEATH, COURTS TAKE 7 WIVES, WILL WED AGAIN

SAN FRANCISCO, March 19.

Dr. George Kingsdale yesterday secured his sixth legal separation, this time from Mazie Burke Kingstone, to whom he was married a year ago in Santa Rosa and from whom he was separated on Washington's Birthday, this year. In addition to the six wives from whom he has been separated by the courts since he began his varied matrimonial career, he lost one wife through death.

Dr. Kingsdale's first marriage was in 1895 to Flora Cohen. She died in 1910. His last one, to today by Judge C. P. Purkitt, was brought to an end yesterday by Judge Flood. He says that he intends to marry again. He refused to give the young woman's name, but said that she is 22 years of age.

SHORTRIDGE SAYS BAR ORIENTALS

SACRAMENTO, March 22.—United States Senator Samuel M. Shortridge, addressing a joint session of the California legislature yesterday, handed the Harding administration and declared in favor of enactment of laws to limit immigration to this country and to restrict child labor. Governor Richardson made a few remarks introducing the speaker.

During his discussion of immigration, the junior California senator declared "we should do away once and for all with the so-called southern agreement whereby Japanese may come into this country. We are told there is a shortage of labor, but I am against letting down the bars so the nation may be over-run with undesirable types. Close the portals erected by our fathers and mothers to revolutionary movements which if not kept out would turn down this temple of America."

Senator Shortridge commented at length on the accomplishments of the administration. It is bringing back prosperity, he said, "and of all the states the future of this is brighter than that of our own."

The senator closed his talk with a plea that California ratify pending national legislation regarding child labor.

George H. Oakland Is Thanked By Senate of State

The city council today received the thanks of the State Senate for the recent hospitality given the legislature in Oakland, granted the 40-year Pacific Railroad permission to construct a spur track across East Twelfth street near Twenty-ninth avenue, and revoked the licenses of two soft-drink dealers.

The licenses revoked were those of Antonio Volpoda, at 1734 Seventh, and A. Hall, 161 Webster. The Urban association, complaining of the growing traffic on Twelfth street from Telegraph to Harrison, suggested that a survey be made in order to set back some property lines which, it is claimed, encroached on the street, and to correct some sidewalks whose width varies from the standard. In this way, it is argued, the street can be widened slightly. The matter was referred to the street department.

Many distinguished visitors as well as regents and other college officials are expected to join in the long academic procession which will wind its way on campus paths to the Greek Theater for tomorrow morning's exercises.

Lieutenant-governor C. C. Young and other state officials are expected to be present, while in tribute to Admiral Sims a distinguished group of army and navy men will be guests of the university.

Beginning at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow, exercises will open with invocation by Dr. Warren H. Landon, president of the San Anselmo Theological Seminary. Student Returns While Burglar Is Busy in House

BERKELEY, March 22.—When Robert C. Parmenter, senior student at the University of California, returned to his home at 1006 Shattuck avenue at 10:35 o'clock last night he heard a commotion in the house as he placed his key in the door. A sound like a chair being turned over caused him to rush to a neighbor's to telephone the police. His suspicions that a burglar was in the house were verified when Officer O. W. Wilson arrived on the scene.

Investigation disclosed a guitar wrapped in a coat hastily abandoned as the burglar made his flight while a vest was found in the back yard where the intruder dropped it. Entrance was gained to the house by a rear window. A desk in the living room and other portions of the home were ransacked. As Parmenter's uncle, George L. Parmenter, owner of the house, and Mrs. Parmenter are out of the city, their return being awaited by the police before a definite check can be made on the burglar's activities.

Silverware valued at $5 was stolen from the home of J. P. Maxwell, 2732 Webster street, according to a report made to the police by Maxwell. According to Maxwell, the silverware was stored in the basement during the month of February, and its loss discovered yesterday.

Mrs. E. Roney, 2119 Kittredge street, has asked the police to assist her in recovering $10.65 stolen from a purse placed under a counter at a restaurant at 2108 Alston way, where she is employed.

and Mrs. Barrows, while from 4 to 5 in the afternoon the annual Charter Day reception will be held in the Stephens Union, with Dr. and Mrs. Barrows receiving with Admiral and Mrs. Sims.

At 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon the faculty and staff and Keyes society of the university will meet in its annual baseball clash, while another ball game scheduled for 3 o'clock will be played by the All-Varsity and 1923 Varsity teams.

More than 500 alumni of the university will join tomorrow night in the annual Charter Day banquet to be held at the Hotel Oakland beginning at 7 o'clock. Admiral Sims will enter the banquet hall to the strains of "Hail to the Chief" and will deliver the address of the evening.

Other speakers will be Governor Richardson and President Barrows. Clinton P. Miller, president of the alumni association, will preside. Dancing will follow the banquet.

CERTAIN THINGS IT IS WELL TO REMEMBER

A very frank talk about artists and their endorsement of musical instruments

THERE is a tendency in the advertising of pianos and other musical instruments, to make it a race for the longest list of endorsing artists. And though this method is subject to abuse, it is right in principle. Names like Caruso, Godowsky, Titta Ruffo, Galli-Curci, Paderewski, Farrar, Rachmaninoff and Ornstein are ones to conjure with. Endorsements from such artists carry weight. And they should—for instruments that command the respect and the affection of the master musicians are the worthiest of your attention.

But musicians are like the rest of us—their preferences vary. No one piano, no one phonograph, or no one reproducing piano can claim all the great artists, or "nearly" all. Nor can any one of them claim "the best"—for who shall say who is the best? In this respect some manufacturers and some retailers are disposed to exaggerate. Unconsciously no doubt, their zeal leads them beyond the bounds of absolute truth. We would hesitate to make so sweeping an assertion for even The Knabe or The Ampico. And yet—where can you find even the equivalent of that imposing assemblage of musical notables who pay homage to either of these two master instruments?

The names of only one hundred and six of them are presented here.

At Carmel-by-the-Sea

At this charming spot on the California Coast is to be found what is probably the most notable colony of artists, writers and musicians in the world. No community could possibly be found, more exacting in its standards, more critical in its judgment. The interest of this group centers in their club, where within the past month they have installed a Knabe. With all the world to choose from, they have chosen this companion of great masters to be the center of their own activities.

The Most Significant Fact of All

[regarding THE AMPICO]

IT would be the natural thing for a concert pianist to record his playing for the reproducing device used in the piano he uses in concert—not only because of his preference for the piano itself, but because he is usually bound to the manufacturer by close ties of friendship. To either break or strain those ties takes courage—the courage of strong conviction. It is significant to note the large number of master pianists who have broken all precedents in the world of music by recording their art for the Ampico in preference to the reproducing device used in the piano they use in concert. The following is a partial list of them:

*SERGEI RACHMANINOFF
*MISCHA LEVITZKI
ERNEST VON DOHNANYI
ARTUR RUBENSTEIN
OLGA SAMAROFF
GEORGE McMANUS
RICHARD STRAUSS
FANNY BLOOMFIELD ZEISLER
YOLANDA NERO
GERALDINE FARRAR

* Rachmaninoff

"I have never before recorded for any reproducing instrument. Now I have played my works for the Ampico because of its absolute faithfulness, and its capacity to preserve beautiful tone painting. It goes far beyond any reproducing piano in these particulars, which a pianist must demand in considering a perpetuation of his art."

Sergei Rachmaninoff.

* Levitzki

"For a number of years I have been keenly interested in the possibilities of the Reproducing Piano. I believe I have heard them all, not once, but many times, but until I heard the Ampico, I never found one that I thought adequately duplicated the artist's playing."

"It is for this reason that I have decided to record my playing for the Ampico exclusively."

Mischa Levitzki.

"Positively Uncanny"

Says Alfred Hertz, director of the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra.

"I surely was delighted with the excellent performance. The mysterious way of starting the instrument was positively uncanny. I enjoyed enormously the whole recital, as I always do when Godowsky plays. I am usually against encores of the same selection, but I thoroughly enjoyed each repetition of Godowsky's playing as given last night by the Knabe Ampico."

SANTA FE MAY BUILD DIRECT S. F.-TO-L. A. LINE

Project Under Investigation
As to Value of Proposed Investment.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 22.—The Santa Fe Railroad company is now engaged in a study of costs and traffic conditions designed to determine whether construction of a direct railway line from San Francisco to Los Angeles would be "an economically sound investment." It was announced at the company's offices here today.

The new construction required probably would consist of a cut-off from Los Angeles connecting with the present San Joaquin valley system of the Santa Fe at Kern City, near Bakersfield.

Building of such a line would bring the Santa Fe into direct competition with the Southern Pacific in the San Francisco-Los Angeles passenger business.

Books borrowed from the Oakland Public Library were kept overdue 684 years, nine months and ten days in 1922, according to the "fine" department. The amount collected in fines at the rate of two cents daily, totaled $5000 for the year. This paid for 250,000 overdue days.

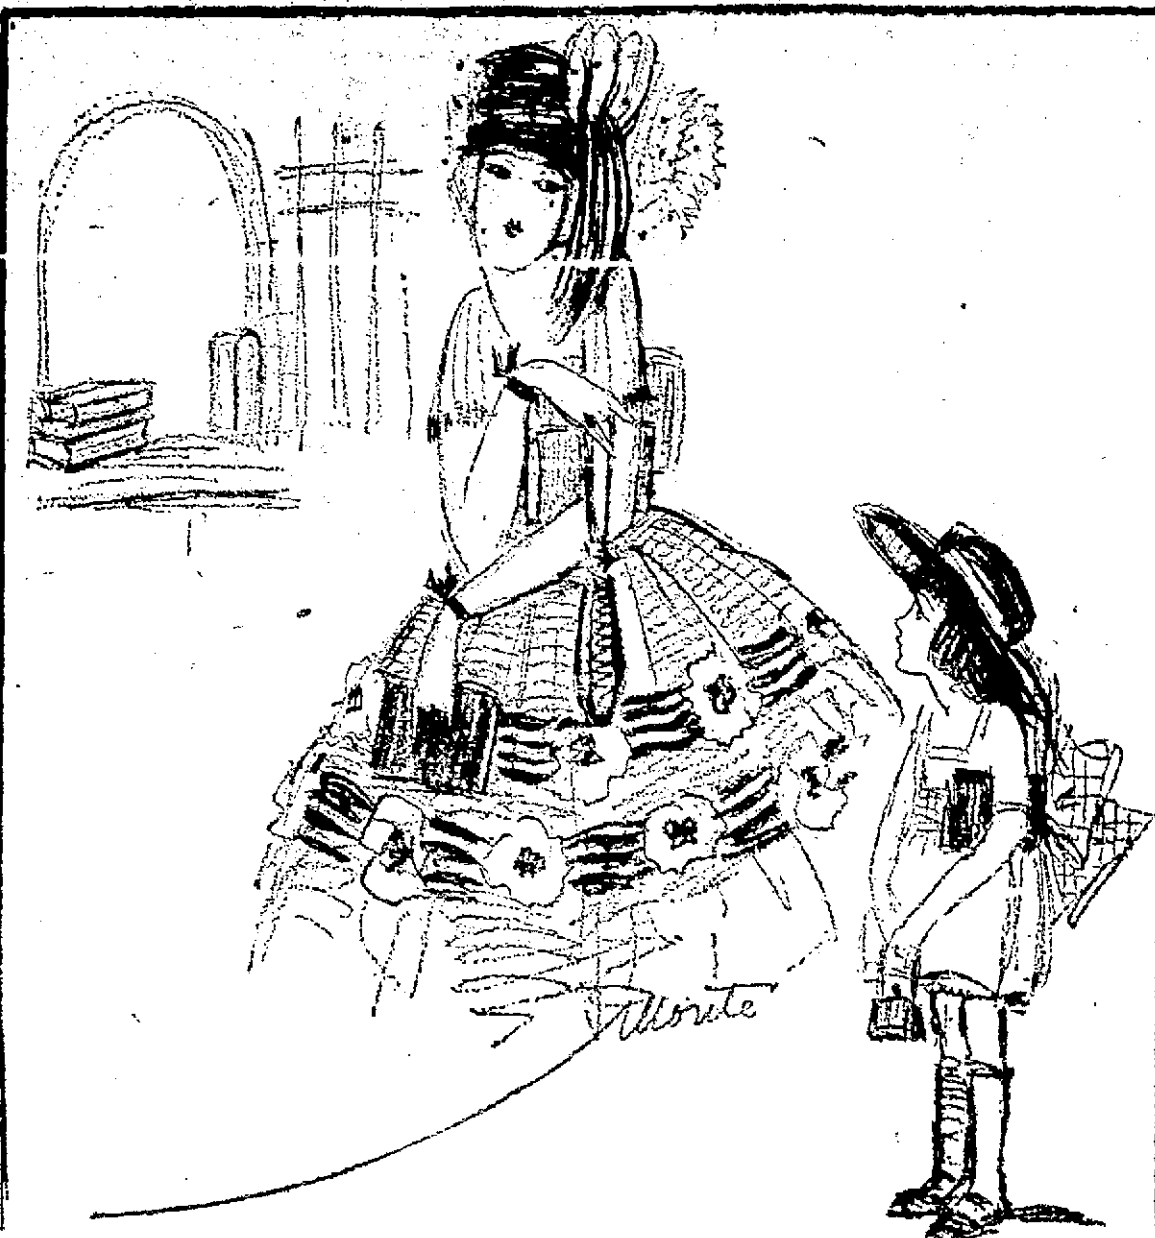

With that statistical "lead" let us enter the library and see how it came about.

"Eleven cents due, please," said the librarian to a tall youth as he passed his returned book through the little window before her desk. He paid the fine promptly and smilingly and passed on to make way for the others who stood in line before the "fine" window at the Oakland public library.

Most everyone has paid a fine on a library book at some time or other in his life and we learn from the librarian who collects the fines that most people pay fines many times in their lives and that some people are in a perpetual state of fine paying on overdue library books.

The $5000 paid in fines grew from the two-cent fine and all because we are careless or just forgetful. There's every inducement to be otherwise; we may renew a book by phone and we are always notified when the time of our loan has expired. Sometimes it takes several little messages to remind us, each notice adding one cent extra to our fine. Still we sometimes do not heed any when we finally bestir ourselves to return the tardy volume which we have been keeping from some other reader we growl at the fine collector because we owe as much as the book is worth and let her know that we might as well buy the thing. She smilingly agrees with us, but between you and me, there's no real reason why we shouldn't pay every cent of the fine which we owe for it isn't the

She smilingly agrees with us, but between you and me, there's no real reason why we shouldn't pay every cent of the fine which we owe for it isn't the librarian's fault. It's nobody's fault but our own.

CHILDREN PROMPT.

At least the foregoing is the usual experience with the men who pay a fine, so says the librarian. Men, women and children pay fines but the children pay them most seldom. They are always prompt and rarely let a fine go over a few pennies. Their elders may well take a lesson therefrom or practice what they preach, for they have been known to owe as much as six or eight dollars for a single fine.

In the history of our public library, one woman kept several books for many months. After receiving half a dozen notices, she returned the books and reluctantly paid a fine of several dollars, whereupon she took out another handful of books and repeated the incident.

Another borrower owed a meager fine and because she had subscribed to the fund for the present site of our library and was otherwise a public benefactor she felt she was justified in refusing to pay a fine. She thought that paying the public library book fine branded her a delinquent in the public eye. She did not consider the justice of recompense because she "forgot" for keeping books which are often not duplicated, from others who have just the same right to them.

Occasionally the library book is overdue because mother has read it and is keeping it a while longer so daughter gets it first she keeps it overtime for mother, that is, if daughter thinks it a fit book for mother to read.

WOMEN PAY MOST.

Women pay the most fines for they usually pay their fines and the men's fines too. It is usually the women folks who do the getting and the taking back of the library books, but something tells us that the men come in for the source of where-with-all for a percentage of the nes. Sometimes the men get books for the women of their household. Occasionally they ask the librarian's help in selection. The other day a youth sauntered into the Oakland library and in a conciliating tone, said to the librarian: "I want an affectionate book for my mother." We guess he procured the very latest love story.

If you see it in The TRIBUNE, tell them so.

For Freckled, Rough or Muddy Complexions

The freckling, discoloring or roughening to which delicate skins are subject after exposure to wind and sun often occurring in early spring, may readily be gotten rid of. Mercolized wax, spread lightly over the face before retiring and removed in the morning with soap and water, completely peels off the disfigured skin. Get an ounce of the wax at any drugstore. There's no more effective way of banishing freckles or other cutaneous defects. Little skin particles come off each day so the process doesn't even temporarily mar the complexion, and one soon acquires a brand new, spotless, gloriously beautiful face. Advertisement.

Community Chest Budget Totals Soon to Be Told

Announcement of the quota to be sought in the coming Community Chest campaign will be made before the end of the week, according to a statement issued yesterday by Lynn Mount, campaign director. It is explained the budget committee, which has been working for the past three months, has completed its labors and is about to submit its report.

The committee has canvassed the work and the financial needs of every welfare, charitable and philanthropic agency in Oakland. A sum of money which will take care of every need has been decided upon for each agency, and the report will indicate the total amount of money necessary to finance the Oakland charities and welfare organizations for the coming year. One of the features of the report will be the elimination of the duplication of work which now exists.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon the second of the "See for Yourself Tours" will be held. It is explained that this tour is different from the preceding one, in that the public generally has been invited to participate. At the previous tour, the members of the various campaign committees were the only ones to be included in the tour.

"We have found such a hearty response to our appeal for automobiles that we are now able to accommodate the general public on these tours," explained Neil O'Grady, director of the speakers' bureau who has the tour in charge. The excursion today will take in three institutions.

LISTENING IN LISTENING IN HALF HOUR NOT TO BE CHANGED

Radio Committee Heeds the Protests Against Shift in DX Time.

The DX period, or silent half hour on the air, between 7:30 and 8 o'clock in the evening, will not be changed, it has been decided by the broadcasting committee of the Pacific Radio Trade Association following numerous protests against the contemplated change.

It was proposed by the committee to change the hour from 7:30 to 8 and 7 and 7:30 o'clock, so that the broadcasting stations in Southern California would be broadcasting during the local listening-in period. Local radio fans objected on the ground that the Los Angeles stations would prevent long distance reception of radio signals. The TRIBUNE, whose half-hour on the air in the evening also would be changed, objected to the plan on the same grounds upon which the amateur based their objection. The American Radio Relay League also objected, holding that such a change would hamper a plan of country-wide DX listening-in periods.

Several broadcasting stations entered an objection and the committee decided to let the present DX period remain as it is. The letter from the committee to the broadcasters is as follows:

"Because of the decided objec-

The United States Shipping

Francisco-Annapolis naval radio circuit on Saturday, according to an announcement made yesterday from the San Francisco office of naval communications. The circuit will go into commission at noon.
A message announcing the plan

new system of communication will give the office of the Shipping naval wireless to Washington, D. C.

It is estimated that more than 50,000 words will be transmitted to the capital during the coming year.

the work will be transferred to a it was said. This is expected to result in a saving estimated at

RADIO PARTY

PROLONGED BY VARIED ISSUES

Executive Session of Experts and Federal Officials On Problems.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—Informed by two days of discussion of other conflicts and obstacles now hampering wireless use, radio experts and government officials attending the radio conference here went into executive session yesterday to consider action which may lead to betterment of conditions.
Commissioner Carson of the Commerce Department's bureau of navigation, acting chairman of the conference, said a day or more might be necessary before the conferences could resolve all of its problems.

The primary object will be to parcel out among users new and less conflicting bands of wave lengths, and to prescribe operating conditions which will allow communications services, broadcast, marine navigators, the army and navy and amateurs to be less hampered in their operations.

Problems put before the conference yesterday ranged from the direct notices given by American composers, through J. C. Rosenthal, as counsel for the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, that they would strive to extend the copyright laws to give them royalties from radio broadcast concerts to the plea of Texas cattlemen for protection in the wireless launching of stockyard reports to give them knowledge as to whether packing centers were ready for their livestock shipments.
Spokesmen for commercial companies and manufacturers asked that special arrangements be made in wireless wave allocations to high class, high powered broadcasting of expensive entertainment and informative programs, by separating their wave bands from those of less efficient transmitters. Amateur representatives likewise sought scope in the ether less congested by vibrations of other users.

Rosenthal, painting a pathetic picture of the straits of average American music composers, of whom he said "only twelve are making an income," declared his society regarded radio concerts as public performances. Rights to collect royalties for use of musical compositions, so distributed, are vested in the writers, he declared, and they want to collect them particularly since their phonograph record royalties are decreasing because of radio competition.

Operators of broadcasting stations whose conflicts are considered most serious, argued for various rulings.

"Newspapers have a bear by the tail which they can't loose," Leo Fitzpatrick, radio director of the Kansas City Star, declared. "There are no monetary returns from the installations. There isn't one of them which is self-sustaining. We consider it a duty to give first to the public any new thing and to pioneer in its utilization."

Commissioner Carson indicated that the conference considered that voluntary agreement of radio users to its decisions would be dependent upon after its work is finished. It is possible, however, that President Harding will be asked to frame an executive order as to some of the wave length dispositions contemplated.

The Old Platform that Makes This New Low Price Possible

This is the Selling Policy that in spite of the fact that the leather market has gone up, makes it possible for us to keep the Quality up and put the Price down once more, and announce a new low price of Six Sixty for Sixty New Spring Styles in Sixty Regal Stores from Coast to Coast.

Thirty years ago I established this Platform and shipped the First Regal Shoes direct from the factory to the first Regal Shoe Store I opened in the heart of the wholesale leather district in the City of Boston.

Today the Regal Shoe Company is a National Institution with Sixty Regal Stores from Coast to Coast, and the Policy Planks in this old Platform are as sound as the day it was built.

Concentrating on One Quality in the factory, cut the cost of Making. Selling direct from the Maker to Wearer, cut the cost of Distribution. One Price for all Styles in every store, cut the cost of Selling. Increased sales in Sixty Regal Stores from Coast to Coast gives us a constantly increasing Purchasing Power and Prestige in the Leather Markets of the World.

It is as simple as A, B, C, and yet we are the only Manufacturing Retailers with a chain of stores from Coast to Coast who make their own shoes in their own factory and sell them in their own stores, at The One Price which gives the consumer the benefit of the saving.

No new religion in merchandising, no new fangled notions in manufacturing and selling discovered during the last thirty years has produced as many economies and resulted in as great Value to the Consumer, as the old planks on which this business was built—i.e.

An Obliging Barber

Mr. A. E. O'Brien, who has been a barber in New York City for many years, made the following statement: "Gray, streaked, or faded hair can be immediately made black, brown or light brown, whichever shade you desire, by the use of the following remedy that you can make at home:

"Simply get a box of Orlex powder at any drug store. It costs very little and no extras to buy. Dissolve it in 2 oz. of distilled or rain water and comb it through the hair. Full directions for use and a gold box guarantee come in each box. The box will last you for months.

"It is safe, does not rub off, is not sticky or gummy and leaves the hair fluffy. It will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger."—Advertisement.

SHOOTING BARES MILKED WHITE ALL OLD WHITE SLAVE COMBINE

Nine Arrests Made in San Francisco After Bride Attacks Spouse.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 22 (By International News Service).—Nine arrests today followed information given to the police of an alleged white slave ring which operates in conjunction with bootlegging activities. The girl victims of the ring were sent to the Juvenile Home. Serious charges were placed against Robert Talbert, Daniel Brown, Emanuel Petridan, Mike Sofas, Estes and Mrs. Margaret Brown. The shooting of Angelo Axellom by his wife Irene, an Oakland girl and bride of three months, started the events which resulted in the arrests.

Mrs. Axellom was arrested by Patrolman Andrew Skully and taken to the Southern district police station, where she said that her husband had threatened her life several times, and that he tried to force her to live an immoral life. After the shooting Axellom told the police it was accidental.

According to the woman's story, during a quarrel, she attempted to take a pistol from her husband's pocket and it was accidentally discharged.

Named in Divorce Action

ESTELLE TAYLOR, film actress, who is again mentioned by woman who is suing for divorce.

ESTELLE TAYLOR IS NAMED AGAIN

LOS ANGELES, March 22.—Estelle Taylor, motion picture actress, who was named co-respondent in the George Walsh-Zena Owen divorce suit, again was named as a co-respondent, this time by Mrs. Ethel Barnes, who charges the young film star was over friendly with her husband, George S. Barnes, cameraman, in a complaint on file today.

Mrs. Barnes charges Miss Taylor has been associating with her husband. She also alleges her husband and the actress frequented public dance halls and cafes until their conduct became a matter of public comment.

Miss Taylor countered the charges made by Zena Owen, screen leading woman, last year, with a libel suit for $100,000. Following a series of bitter charges, the Owen-Walsh suit was dropped, and the libel suit instituted by Miss Taylor was also stricken from the records.

BETTER BUILDING SHOW READY TO OPEN TOMORROW

Last Exhibits Installed and Finishing Touches Put to Decorations.

Months of preparation for Oakland's first annual "Better Building Show," which starts tomorrow at 1124 Franklin street for a special ten days exposition, culminated today.

Under a direction of a committee of fifteen, the last exhibits, wrapped and carefully guarded from public view, were installed and the finishing touches given the Egyptian decoration effect for the exposition.

"The people of Oakland who love beautiful homes and home furnishings will be overwhelmed with surprise and delight at the exhibition," said Lynn Rosebrook, chairman of the committee, said today. "We have striven hard to make this first 'Better Building Show' a complete mirror of the most beautiful and useful things in the building and furniture industry."

New inventions, new designs, new artistic effects in building materials and plumbing of all kinds as well as the latest effects in furniture will be seen in each exhibit, Rosebrook said.

At the same time the committee announced that it had received the unanimous endorsement of the Alameda County Builders' Exchange.

Johnson's Concert Delayed By Demand

Holders of season tickets for the Artist Concert Series are requested to note that the Edward Johnson concert will be held in the Auditorium opera house on Friday evening, March 30. The date printed on their tickets is a week earlier, and this change was necessitated by the great success in the southern states; the over-selling of the tickets in more than one city resulted in a repetition of the concert being demanded.

It is seldom that the itinerary of a concert tour is changed, and it is doubtful if such a change has ever before been necessitated for such a cause.

Johnson's success in operatic roles is so well known that it is expected the house will be entirely sold out.

LEGAL DEATH RULING ASKED

Stating that neither she nor the lodge have been able to establish the death of Charles A. Rogers, who mysteriously disappeared on September 1, 1915, and has never been heard from since, Mrs. Corn E. Rogers, his wife, has filed suit in the superior court to have him declared legally dead and to collect $1000 insurance from the Woodmen of the World.

Easter Lilies Predominate In Decorations

Many of beautiful Bermuda lilies were fashioned into a bower last evening in the drawing room of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Park of Claremont for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Josephine Park, and Edwin Sprague Pillsbury, son of Captain and Mrs. A. F. Pillsbury of Berkeley.

Nine o'clock was the hour of the service, which was read by Rev. L. B. Hills of St. John's Presbyterian church, Berkeley, in the presence of 200 guests.

At the bride's table about which the fourteen members of the bridal party were seated, pink sweet peas and roses blended delicately with silver bands of ribbon and bows suspended above the artistic centerpiece of blossoms.

Miss Park was given in marriage by her father and radiant in a gown of all white satin silverback crepe beaded in crystals and seed pearls.

The bride veil was the same worn by the bride's sisters, Mrs. Albert Biehl and Mrs. Edith Sherman, were the bridesmaids and gowned similarly. They carried arm bouquets of coral sweet peas, lilies of the valley and Opelia roses.

Floyd Stewart was best man at the wedding and the ushers Philip Stetson, Miles Cantelow, Albert Biehl, Irving Twomey and Robert Lipman.

Upon their return from their honeymoon, a motor trip south, Mr. and Mrs. Pillsbury will go to Mill Valley for the summer months and in the fall make Berkeley their headquarters.

Both bride and bridegroom are graduates of the University of California. Mrs. Pillsbury is an Alpha Phi, and her husband a Sigma Phi man.

Mr. and Mrs. Park will depart April 4 for the East, where they are to sail for Europe for a six months' sojourn.

Judge and Mrs. William H. Langdon will leave March 28 for Mexico for a sojourn, and will accompany the members of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Charles Hoag entertained at luncheon and bridge at her home in Pacific avenue, Piedmont recently, and among those who shared her hospitality were Mrs. Alice Buteau, Mrs. Samuel S. Shepard, Mrs. Russell Conley, Mrs. Clarence Ogden, Mrs. Charles MacLennan, Mrs. James Greer, Mrs. John J. Tully, Mrs. Charles Fogarty, Mrs. Elizabeth Aldrich and Miss Morseman.

Club Women Veterans Plan Organization

By EDNA B. KINARD.

Presidents come and presidents go, bringing in and taking out a coterie of capable, trained workers who have mastered their self-imposed tasks about the time their terms of office are completed. Because retiring leaders are too courteous to impose their opinions and experience upon those who come after them, they shortly lost to sight in the new activities of the organization and their wisdom goes for naught.

What is true in the local clubs is true also in the larger groups. Many years ago the California Federation of Women's Clubs discovered what it was losing when it shouted "The board is dead, Long live the board," and set about organizing what was originally known as the Down and Out Club among state leaders who retired from office. The group which was formed with a plan only to keep and cement friendships, developed a program of its own and presently lost its identity in the Emeritus Club.

Alameda District, C. F. W. C., has a similar plan under discussion. Mrs. George A. Riggs, president, has suggested that at the annual convention which will be held in Lodi next month, some action be taken toward an informal organization which will conserve the abilities and training of retired leaders.

A long line of able women have made history at the head of district affairs in the twenty-one years since its organization. What the auxiliary shall be called or what shall be its place in the federation plan is left to the future. At any rate it seems probable that April will offer some opportunity for the recruiting of past executives and their boards in a recognized group which shall become a part of the district federation.

A Civic Day will be observed by Oakland League of Women Voters, meeting tomorrow afternoon in Aamias Hall, 14th and Harrison street. Candidates for the election on April 17 have been invited to appear before the clubwomen and present their claims for consideration. The men seeking the office of commissioners and the men and women who have filed for the several vacancies on the board of education, will be the speakers. Mrs. H. J. Platts, chairman of the municipal committee, will introduce those whose names appear on the program.

To permit ample time for the candidates' talks, the regular hour for the meeting has been set forward to 2 p. m. The members are called together for a 1:30 p. m. business session, interest of which centers in the election of a nominating committee. Mrs. C. E. Wilson, president, will preside as chairman.

"Tree Planting and Forestry" was the subject for an interesting program which members of Esplanade Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, presented this afternoon at the residence of the vice regent, Mrs. Irene H. Payne, in Piedmont. Mrs. Josephine Marshall Fernald, regent, presided as chairman. The numbers were arranged by Mrs. Ota Foster. "The Sunshine Singers" contributed groups of songs.

The merits of the Community Chest were reviewed before members of the Home Department of Manzanita Parent-Teacher Association yesterday by Mrs. R. E. Danford. The mothers met at the residence of Mrs. T. Crawford, 2386 Twenty-seventh street, for an informal meeting.

Mrs. Peter J. Kramer is resigning from the chairmanship of the publicity department, California Congress of Mothers. Under its constitution and by-laws, the state organization is not permitted to participate in policies of any nature. That no criticism might come upon the executive board with which she has been affiliated for several years, Mrs. Kramer upon filing as a candidate for election to the board of education in Oakland, presented her resignation to the parent-teacher body. Mrs. Kramer is a past president of Oakland Federation of Mothers' Clubs.

TWO WOMEN DIE IN FACT; POLICE SAY IT'S MURDER

Mother and Daughter Two of Four in Family Who Are Suicides.

CHICAGO, March 22.—(By the Associated Press).—As police investigated what was termed a slaying and a suicide in the deaths of Mrs. W. C. Woolson, 70, and her daughter, Mrs. Edna Robinson, 49, they disclosed the history of the family, once prominent in the East, but finally reduced to poverty by the use of narcotics. The police enumerated four persons in the family who had committed suicide in the last 25 years.

Twenty-five years ago Dr. William Charles Woolson, Mrs. Woolson's husband, was a prominent physician of Buffalo, N. Y. He was found dead in his office, his throat cut and a razor lying beside the body.

The mother and three children disappeared from Buffalo and came to Chicago. Years passed, the children grew up and married. Edna married J. A. Robinson, a prosperous merchant. Some months ago, police said, he was taken to the state hospital at Kankakee, Ill., to be treated for the paralytic habit.

Howard, one of Mrs. Woolson's sons, committed suicide some time ago, cutting his throat with a razor. His family told police he feared prosecution for running down a child with an automobile.

Last night Mrs. Woolson and her daughter, Mrs. Robinson, who had assisted partly on the charitable efforts of neighbors, were found dead in a bed at their home, both their throats cut and a razor lying nearby.

Three notes found in the home indicated a suicide pact. One asserted "we are going of our own free will," and continued, "they would not give me a chance to cure myself as I had been doing." It was signed "Edna," the daughter.

Another note urged that a neighbor take care of Mrs. Robinson's six-months old child, now in a charitable home. Another child, a 4-year-old boy, was put in a home some time ago.

Police believe Mrs. Robinson killed her mother and then committed suicide.

Impressive Funeral Given Bishop Burke

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., March 22.—Three archbishops, fifteen bishops and two hundred priests attended the funeral services here today for Bishop Maurice E. Burke of the St. Joseph diocese of the Roman Catholic church at St. Joseph's cathedral.

Two hours before the funeral services started the cathedral was filled and thousands unable to gain admittance stood for several hours in the snow in streets near the cathedral.

Remarkable Tonic Brings New Strength to Thousands of Weak and Ailing

Discovery of Lyko, the Great General Tonic, Gives Aid of Science to Run-Down People

As you waken the crowd going along the street, how easy it is to see the difference in the people who make it up.

Some are well, strong, vigorous, full of the vim and energy that win in social and business life. Others are weak, emaciated, lacking in all that counts for power and success—mere nobodies in active affairs.

And yet most of these run-down people could quickly become well and strong if they would only help Nature to restore their bodies to a normal condition. What they need is an efficient general tonic and regulator. If they will do what thousands of other people once weak and lacking in energy—now strong and well—have done, they will use Lyko to get on their feet again.

It is simply amazing to read of the wonderful help Lyko has given to people who had become worn out in mind and body, many of them discouraged, hopeless of regaining their health and strength.

Mr. Johnson, a resident of Kansas City, was amazed at the way Lyko built up his run-down constitution. He says, "When I began taking Lyko I was thin and gaunt, weighed only 130 pounds, and felt a great lack of 'zip.' Now I weigh 147 pounds, am full of energy and never feel tired."

H. Jenkins, of Chicago, is another to whom Lyko has meant renewed strength and vigor. The following is from his letter: "My business keeps me closely confined to the office and at a desk all day long. As a result, my system became all clogged up, I was always tired, rested poorly at night and grew nervous and irritable. I began using Lyko and now I am in fine shape again, feel cheerful, and am able to do much more work without fatigue or nervous strain."

Mitchell Murray, of Missouri, sends a letter which says: "When I began to take Lyko I was so weak I could hardly walk across the room. Now I am able to do a pretty fair day's work, and my neighbors are amazed at the effect."

J. D. Miller of Chicago writes: "We have been using Lyko in our family and find it the best tonic for stomach and bowels we have ever used."

F. B. Barker of Florida is another who writes in praise of Lyko. He says: "My wife's health was all run down and she has greatly improved since taking Lyko."

Lyko is a scientific preparation containing pure medicinal ingredients each of which has a beneficial action on some part of the system. It has a mild but effective laxative action which gets rid of constipation.

It also stimulates a large stomach to normal action and improves digestion so that the body absorbs the full strength from the food. As many ailments come from a disordered digestive system or from a clogged up condition of the bowels, Lyko helps to remove one of the great causes of discomfort and illness.

Certain ingredients in Lyko have a direct and beneficial action on the kidneys and liver; others give strength to the nervous system and prevent what is known as nervous fatigue and mental exhaustion. Practically every part of the body is helped to return to its full health and strength by Lyko. And a healthy body means physical and mental power, magnetic personality, the appearance that brings admiration and confidence.

If you are frail, weak, suffering from a "breakdown" or if you feel inactive, lacking in energy, unable to compete with active people, if you look and feel old, let Lyko give you new vim and vigor. Don't delay. Begin at once. Let Lyko do for you what it has done for so many others.

Lyko is sold by leading druggists. Ask your dealer for it.

Viola Worden Smith of Berkeley Decides to Become Professional Dancer.

BERKELEY, March 22.—In a "toss-up" between a college sheepskin and a career on the stage the latter has been declared the victor for attractive Viola Worden Smith of Berkeley, freshman student at the University of California. And so Miss Smith, whose dancing has won her recognition in Berkeley and Los Angeles, is preparing to appear on the Orpheum circuit this summer. The vaudeville engagement marks the beginning of a professional career which Miss Smith plans to make. That she will make a success of her chosen life work is the prediction of artists who have seen her dance. For two years Miss Smith has been studying with Portia Mansfield Sweet, well-known teacher of dancing and its related arts. Miss Smith is a member of a well-known Berkeley family living at 821 San Luis road.

AUTOIST FREED WHEN SPEED IS "ESTIMATED"

BERKELEY, March 22.—Because Policeman W. J. Wilson did not chase G. F. Coleman, Jr., taxi driver of 1238 Euclid avenue, and merely estimated his speed, the latter won a dismissal of a speeding charge in Judge Robert Edgar's court this morning. Wilson declared that he observed Coleman attempting to overtake a Southern Pacific electric train and declared that he was traveling between 25 and 40 miles per hour. Coleman had two witnesses who said the former was traveling only 20 miles an hour.

W. P. Turner, Hotel Turpin, Oakland, was fined $5 this morning by Judge Edgar for speeding, or a dollar for each mile over the limit on San Pablo avenue.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—Branding the Italian Fascisti in the United States as "repulsive" to the best American institutions, Senator William H. King, Democrat of Utah, indicated today that the next Congress would be asked to investigate the "black shirt" movement.

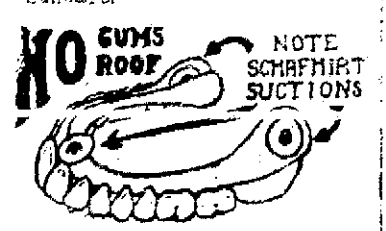

King warned that the spread of the Fascisti throughout the world might lead to serious international complications and declared he would formally call it to the attention of the Senate when Congress reconvenes.

WIFE SUES MAN

ACCUSED BY GIRL

Setting forth that she separated from Charles L. Emmons, a sailor at Mare Island, on September 11, 1922, when he was arrested in Visalia on a statutory charge preferred by a girl 19 years of age, and charging him with many cruelties previous to that time, Mrs. Maurine Emmons today has on file a suit for divorce. She asks custody of two children, Sumner, aged 2, and Muriel, aged 4 months, and $25 a month for their support.

The statutory charge against Emmons was never brought to trial because the girl disappeared, according to the wife, but Emmons was taken to Fresno for violation of probation on a previous charge of automobile theft.

Since their marriage in Oakland, September 27, 1919, Emmons associated with other women, the wife declares, and once a woman called him on the phone and he explained that "it is Olga, the only woman I ever loved." Once while she was in jail, Emmons visited her and on another occasion he threatened to "cut her into a million pieces," says the wife. A divorce suit instituted by her on January 18, 1923, was later dismissed, says the wife, when Emmons sought a reconciliation and promised to mend his ways, but he continued his practice of associating with other women, she alleges.

WOODLAND, March 22.—Mrs. J. C. Marshall of this city left for Berkeley today to be present at the marriage of Miss Josephine Parks and Ed Pillsbury, to be performed at the home of Mrs. Marshall's sister, Mrs. J. M. Parks, of Berkeley.

NOTED EPISCOPAL CHURCH BUILDER PAID LAST RITES

Funeral Services Over Body of Dr. John Bakewell Are Held at Trinity.

Funeral services for Rev. John Bakewell, D. D., were held this afternoon from Trinity Episcopal church, Twenty-ninth street and Telegraph avenue, of which he was founder and rector emeritus. Right Rev. Edward Loring Parsons, bishop-coadjutor of California, assisted by Rev. Lloyd B. Thomas, rector, conducted the simple rites.

The church was thronged with clergymen who had been associated with Dr. Bakewell in his ministry and friends from about the bay.

Dr. Bakewell died at his home, 2331 Telegraph avenue, Tuesday afternoon at the age of 85 years. He had resided in California since 1883, coming to Oakland ten years later. In 1893 he retired from the active ministry, becoming rector emeritus of the parish which he founded in this city and which, under his guidance in ten years, became an important unit of the Episcopal church.

An interesting group of churches owe their development to this veteran religious leader. In Atchison, Kansas, in 1867 he built Trinity church. Four years later found him in Topeka, Kansas, where he enlarged the church, now the cathedral of the diocese. Still four years later he was in Trenton, N. J., rector of St. Paul's church. In 1883 he came to California to become rector of Trinity church in Santa Barbara.

His second charge, or the coast was in Pacific Grove, where he assumed the position of rector of St. Mary's-by-the-Sea. There he cleared off a considerable debt within a few months.

Trinity church in Oakland was built in 1893. Dr. Bakewell during the ten years of his active ministry, was widely recognized as one of the foremost of the flourishing new parishes which he had founded.

Two daughters and four sons survive Dr. Bakewell. They are Mrs. Harriet B. Bakewell, Miss Ann S. Bakewell, John Thomas, Vail Benjamin and Walter Bakewell. Dr. Bakewell was born in Philadelphia, Penn., in 1838.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application of two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture, you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage Compound. It's so natural and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.

OF ADDRESS AT KNIGHTS' LUNCH

Major Gillman Discusses the Right in Acts of Individuals and Nations.

"The Union of Authority and Responsibility as the Measure of Right in the Acts of the Individual and the Nation" was the subject of a talk by Major George Gillman before the Knights of the Round Table at the Hotel Oakland yesterday.

Major Gillman explained a principle of action which he described as a natural law more important than the law of gravitation, and equally universal, practical, simple and unending.

"Every right act and every success," he said, "can be traced to accordance with this principle, namely, that the responsibility for all authority must rest upon those who possess the authority."

Major Gillman summarized his theory in three commandments:

- 1—Don't "butt in," that is, do not exercise authority in the affairs of others where they must bear the responsibility;
- 2—Don't shirk, Don't put upon others the responsibility for authority you rightfully exercise;
- 3—Don't let others "butt in" upon your own life and rights.

This Major Gillman declared was the only true justification for war.

Every sin of commission he laid to the violation of the first commandment, every sin of omission to the violation of the second, and every degradation of slavery to that of the third.

In closing Major Gillman stated that as this was a natural law its operation could be seen in his own profession, engineering, where the power wire or the bridge must have the strength or authority to bear the load of current or traffic which in its case was the responsibility, and that unlike man-made laws this law could not be violated by man or thing without sure and swift punishment.

DEVELOPMENT OF OAKLAND CITED IN LUNCH SPEECH

S. H. Masters Depicts Growth of City for Members of Exchange Club.

"Oakland's Development" was the subject of a talk by S. H. Masters at yesterday's luncheon meeting of the Exchange club, held at the Hotel Oakland.

"No matter what business you are in, you are more or less connected with the real estate business," Masters said. "Either you pay rent or you own your own home, hence you are in one way or another interested in real estate activities."

"The real estate business has two sections—utility and speculation. Of these two, the ultimate enterprise is utility, for without the nature of utility there can be no real estate speculation."

"There are three types of business in real estate activities. These are residential, commercial and industrial properties. All three are coordinated, but the most important is the residential property, for the most important feature of any city is the home."

"During 1922 the building permits for new construction work in Oakland amounted to practically $25,000,000. Of this amount about $11,000,000 went for residences. Could the property utilized under

ENGINEER URGES ESTUARY BRIDGE

SAN FRANCISCO, March 22.—Advocating a bridge in place of the proposed tunnel between Oakland and Alameda, Wynn Meredith, San Francisco engineer, addressed the Alameda County Commuters' Club at its weekly luncheon at the Palace Hotel yesterday.

The cost of the bridge for electric car and vehicular traffic would be materially less than that of a tunnel, according to the speaker. He said the bridge would be more suitable under existing conditions and that its maintenance would be a great deal less. He explained that gasses escaping from automobiles made the tunnel more hazardous than the bridge and that reason less desirable.

Meredith was introduced by A. G. Kazebeer, president of the club, who declared that its members are vitally interested in connecting the bay across by bridges or tunnels and thereby bringing them into one metropolitan area.

During the session a committee was appointed to join with a similar committee of the North Central Improvement Association to take up the matter of the construction of a viaduct on the south side of Market street over the Embarcadero with the State Board of Harbor Commissioners.

MOTHER! MOVE CHILD'S BOWELS

"California Fig Syrup" is Child's Best Laxative

Hurry mother. Even a cross, sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup" and it never fails to open the bowels. A teaspoonful today may prevent a sick child tomorrow. If constipated, bilious, feverish, fretful, has cold, cough, or if stomach is sour, tongue coated, breath bad, remember a good cleansing of the little bowels is often all that is necessary.

Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup," which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.—Advertisement.

To the new users of Royal Cords—probably a million in 1923

MOST rules are all the better for being broken once in a while.

There's an advertising rule, for instance—never to ask anyone to buy a thing and try it.

When the makers ask you to try Royal Cords they may be breaking the rule, but you will benefit thereby.

The makers of Royal Cords, for their part, can't see why making friends should be out of fashion.

The more quality a tire has—and the more leadership—the greater its obligation to be simple and direct.

Royal Cords earned their position of high regard by simple things.

You can easily see that people's confidence in Royal Cords could never have been won by quoting a lot of big mileages, talking big discounts, or going through all those other kinds of gestures with the idea of registering big.

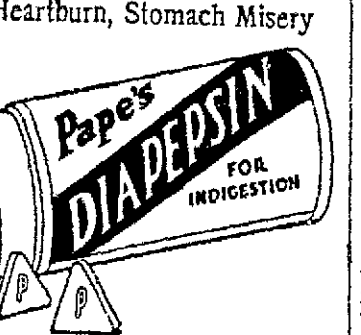

The makers of Royal Cords devote themselves to guarding quality and have no desire to dazzle customers.

Their ideas seem to be right, because U. S. Royal Cords are the measure of all tire values today.

INTERFERENCE IN RUSSIA FUTILE, HUGHES ASSERTS

Salvation Cannot Be Contrived Outside, Secretary Tells Delegation.

WASHINGTON, March 22 (By the Associated Press).—Flatly rejecting an appeal by representatives of the women's committee for recognition of Russia, Secretary Hughes declared the salvation of Russia cannot be contrived outside and injected Hughes' remarks follow:

In speaking to the representatives of your general organization last May, I voiced the concern which we felt for the welfare of the people of Russia. The evidence of the last year, as we have become even more intimately acquainted with the great distress into which they have plunged, has intensified that feeling. The constant and dominant thought in our minds is "How can we help that stricken people?"

INTERFERENCE FUTILE. Not only do we not desire to interfere with the internal concerns of Russia; not only do we recognize the right of the Russian people to develop their own institutions, but such interference would be futile.

The salvation of Russia cannot be contrived outside and injected. Russia's home lies in Russia. It is absolutely impossible to deal with matters which are in the control of the Russian people and which, until they are adequately dealt with, furnish no ground for helpfulness, no ground for Russian recuperation.

Russia needs industry and trade, but industry and trade cannot be created by any formal political arrangements. The benefit to Russia, through which her productivity can be increased and the basis of industry and trade provided, must come from those who make permanent investment in Russia, who are there to see transactions through no basis of permanent relations and who consequently so far as they are foreigners, can be assured before they will contemplate such investments that these will be secure and worth while. The conditions, which would invite the foreign assistance you point out is so necessary, are in the control of the Russian authorities.

The conditions of industry and transportation are most lamentable. If you need to know what those conditions are, I refer you to the soviet authority, Mr. Rykoff, and his statements last fall.

CHANGES INADEQUATE. There have been changes in laws and methods. I would be the last to deny them. It is not a pleasure to me to look

SON OF SOCIETY WOMAN JAILED DESPITE PLEA

ALAMEDA, March 22.—"I am sorry madam, but reckless driving in the city must be stopped. Payment of a fine would not bring back a person who had died from injuries received at the hands of a reckless driver. I feel such being the case, your son must serve a jail sentence instead of paying a fine," was the reply made today to Mrs. L. A. Gray, society woman of Berkeley, residing at 5212 Desmond street, who appeared in person to plead before Judge L. R. Weinmann in the Alameda police court for her son, R. A. Gray, student in the University of California.

Gray was arrested by Police-man Elk on a charge of reckless driving. Investigation according to the police revealed Gray had been arrested on a similar charge in other east-bay cities. He was given a sentence of three days in the city jail.

Three in Race for Santa Cruz Majority

SANTA CRUZ, March 22.—Three have announced their candidacy for mayor at the coming election, D. C. Clark, who has served the city in that capacity before, O. A. Goldstein and John Maher. Maher has served on the city council some years back for several terms.

into the conditions of Russia and find them unsatisfactory. On the other hand, it serves no useful purpose to take these changes that have been made and exaggerate their effect of misconception the result of them. They are far from adequate to create the conditions which would support industry and trade in Russia.

The reason Russian stock are decreasing, the reason that they have this progressive impoverishment, is that they have not yet supplied what is essential. And when I speak of what is essential, I am not referring to anything that anybody on the outside of Russia, least of all ourselves, artificially sets up. We are pointing to the conditions of the world as it exists. If there were any need of a demonstration of the essentiality of those conditions, the Russian experience would certainly give it.

I recognize fully the distinction between matters exclusively of economic import, and the question of diplomatic relations. As I said to the representatives of your organization a year ago, the fundamental question in the recognition of a government is whether it shows ability and a disposition to discharge international obligations. If you are of what avail is it to speak of assurances, if valid obligations and rights are repudiated and property is confiscated? This is not a question of the rich or of the poor. It's a question of principle. Only the other day I had a letter stating the case of two American women who had been living in Russia and invested all their savings in Russian securities, and they are poor people, dependent, and they are very anxious to know whether these securities will have any recognition.

Our own government, after the first revolution, loaned about $187,000,000 to Russia. I may say that we were the first to recognize the Kerensky government; that government did not profess a policy of repudiation. Now what did the authorities do? In their decree of January 21, 1918, they made this simple statement: "Unconditionally, and without any exceptions, all foreign loans are annulled."

What was loaned to Russia out of our Liberty bond, bonds, and the war loans obtained by Russia before the revolution to enable Russia to continue the war were simply annulled! Now the United States is not a harsh creditor. The United States is not seeking to press debtors who cannot pay beyond their means. The indulgences and proper arrangements are one thing, repudiation is quite another. I have yet to hear of any change in this announcement of the soviet authorities. Suggestions which have been reported are always accompanied with impossible qualifications. There is no hope for the success of your gospel—our gospel—of brotherly kindness.

a world which is not animated by the sincerity of good faith. MISTAKEN POLICY. Not only would it be a mistaken policy to give encouragement to repudiation and confiscation, but it is also important to remember that there should be no encouragement to those efforts of the soviet authorities to visit upon other peoples the disaster that have overwhelmed the Russian people. I wish I could believe that such efforts had been abandoned.

We are just as anxious in this department and in every branch of the administration as you can possibly be, to promote peace in the world, to get rid of hatred, to have a spirit of mutual understanding, but the world we desire is a world not threatened with the destructive propaganda of the soviet authorities, and one in which there will be good faith and the recognition of obligations and a sound basis of international intercourse.

The delegation was composed of about forty women, with Miss Ella Boynton, of Chicago, as the spokeswoman. Other members included Miss Bessie Beatty, San Francisco; Mrs. Edward C. King of the Woman's Trade Union League, New York. The executive committee of the organization represented by the women includes Mrs. Robert M. La Follette, wife of the Wisconsin senator; Miss Adelaide Borah of Washington and Idaho; and Mrs. Emma Wild, Portland, Ore.

"Better Building" Show Draws Large Crowd at Opening

100 EXHIBITORS OF EASTBAY JOIN IN EXPOSITION IN EXPOSITION

Home Builders Throng Fair, Which Opens for Ten-Day Season.

The first annual Eastbay "Better Building Show," containing nearly 100 exhibits and mirroring the building and furniture industry of Alameda county, opened today for a ten-day special session at 1424 Franklin street.

Set off by a harmonious Egyptian decoration plan, the exposition is replete with various colored booths displaying building materials and furnishings of all kinds. Everything that goes into a home, from the basement to the roof, was thrown open to the public.

Beautiful woodwork, plumbing, appliances, new building inventions, new furniture models—an entire bungalow in one exhibit, miniature house models, fixtures, gathered from every section of the Eastbay region, filled the exposition.

As prospective homebuilders thronged the aisles passing from booth to booth, exclamations of delight and surprise were heard on all sides.

"I didn't realize so many beautiful useful things could be put into one exhibition," said one woman. "I was planning to spend about six weeks visiting the different factories and stores when I heard of the exhibition opening today."

CROWDS JUSTIFY WORK. Guy Lynn Rosebrook, chairman of the committee of fifteen which planned the first annual Better Building Show, said that the months of preparation for the exhibit were more than justified by the number of persons who visited the exposition today.

Despite the large number, the crowds were systematically handled so that every visitor saw each exhibit and every question asked was answered.

"The first day of our building show assures us that the people of this community want to look before they build," Rosebrook said. "It was quite astounding to me to see the interest our exhibits aroused. Judging from the opening crowd, the success of our future annual building show is assured."

Every bit of space for exhibition purposes had been taken when the show opened today. No amusement concessions were allowed, but the visitors were furnished with special music for the occasion. Plans have been made to furnish music during the entire exposition, according to Rosebrook.

Ben Ebersole, member of the executive committee, predicted that the hundreds of suggestions for the improvement of homes and the building of better buildings, contained in the exposition, would have a marked effect on the class of future dwellings in the Eastbay district.

"This exposition is not only educating the public as to what the Eastbay region holds in the way of home building materials and furnishings, but it is giving the public an education into the best method of selecting such materials."

NINE DAYS MORE. That the exhibits have made lasting impressions on the minds of home lovers was seen today in the fact that many were taking notes as they passed from booth to booth.

The exhibit continuing for the next nine days will open daily at 1 o'clock in the afternoon and close at 10 at night, including Sunday.

Says Wife Suffered From Imaginary Ills

The excessive use of bromides by Mrs. Minnie E. James, mother of four children, two of them adults, which she took for what her husband intimates to be imaginary ill, was responsible for "wrecking her nervous system" and caused all his marital troubles, declares William W. James, the husband, who makes the charge in an answer and cross-complaint to the suit for divorce filed by his wife recently, in which she charged him with striking her and knocking her down, refusing to pay her doctor and hospital bills and numerous other alleged cruelties.

Here, There and Everywhere in the Eastbay

It Does Get Tiresome. Word comes that wealthy people in Pennsylvania who have been playing at being poor, have grown tired of the game. An Oakland man who has been playing at being poor all his life says that's what he calls a rich joke.

No Trouble at All. If there are any Eastbay millionaires who wish to play at being poor for a while, they'll not find much difficulty getting someone to look after their money for them while they try the experiment.

HERE AND THERE. Too Much Work, Wife Says. Compelled to do manual labor on the ranch, besides cooking for a number of ranch hands and being treated more like a servant than a wife, she asserts, Mrs. Mary Dura today filed a divorce suit against Frank Dura whom she married October 23, 1913.

His Idea. A local non-believer in auto-suggestion says that this idea of multiplying one's hair growth by thinking about it, is all balderdash, in his opinion.

Now Use for It. A young Eastbay housewife recently went into a stationery store to buy an eraser. "I want it to clean the paper dishes with," she explained.

My wife puts my socks away inside out—A. L. McC.

What Does Your Wife Do? Quite So. That Chinese gambler who was held up and robbed says that life is just a lottery, anyway.

An optimist is a fellow that lives in an apartment and chums with the owner of a closed car. What his is why more heavy doctors hadn't sued for malpractice.

Bitten, Wife Charges. After she had left her husband, Thomas F. Thomson, a chiropractor, he lured her back to their home on the grounds that her pet canary was starving and then attacked her, biting her on the nose, according to testimony given today by Mrs. Lucille C. Thomson, which won a decree of divorce for her. Superior Judge Dudley Kinsell heard the case.

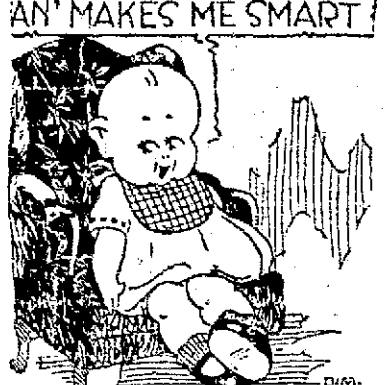

Man Hit by S. P. Train. Struck by a Southern Pacific electric train at Fourteenth and Franklin streets last night, Modesto Garra, 24, 124 Fourth street, was bruised about the left knee. He was treated at the emergency hospital.

Man Injured by Auto. Homer Foxe, 12, 479 Twenty-third street, sustained a possible fractured thigh and cuts and bruises when he was struck by an automobile driven by Mr. Livingston on Grove street near Twenty-third street, last night.

POP HAS CHARGE OF MY EDUCATION—HE TAKES ME OVER HIS KNEE AND MAKES ME SMART

In a Hole. Shortage of coal is killing Berlin's night life. The German "night hawks" find themselves in a hole and it isn't a coal hole, either.

POP HAS CHARGE OF MY EDUCATION—HE TAKES ME OVER HIS KNEE AND MAKES ME SMART.

And Now It's Sprung. Today is the first day of Spring. The office was says he has been waiting a week for us to spring that one.

Appropriate. A local couple were trying to decide what to name their new baby, when the youngster's bachelor uncle dropped in and took a hand in the discussion. "Call him Wolf-ward," he suggested. "He howls like a gang of wolves."

Turn About, Fair Play. A man arrested here for "kiting" checks said he merely wanted to play at being rich.

MILLIONAIRE ILL, SHOOTS HIMSELF

FOR ANGELES. March 22.—A period of ill-health of two years' duration, it is said by relatives, culminated in the suicide of Don P. Gates, multimillionaire lumberman, who ended his life late yesterday by firing a bullet through his brain at his South Pasadena estate.

Gates was found dying by a caretaker a few seconds after a single shot reverberated through a densely wooded grove he had selected for the act. A .38 calibre revolver was clutched in the right hand.

Coroner Nance was notified by members of the family who gave the reason for the tragedy. Gates' ill-health and period of melancholia dated from the death of his first wife, two years ago.

Two sons, seven and eleven years old, survive him besides three uncles.

New Mountain View Plant to Open Soon

MOUNTAIN VIEW, March 22.—Waiting only for one more shipment of machinery before production starts, the Bloomer Brothers' corduroy pants factory of this city is entering the ready-to-wear garment field here. A complete plant has been wired up and prepared for work in the building behind Knight's pharmacy. Mountain View business men are enthusiastic over the birth of the new industry here and promise to back it to the limit.

TO TAKE PART IN PRESS CLUB ACTS

Many Interesting Features Are Booked for Entertainment on April 2.

The University Glee club, famed for its country and the Orient for its harmonies, signed today as one of the twelve acts at the Press Club show at the Auditorium arena on the night of April 2.

This feature, together with Robert Warwick, Bill Montana and numerous vaudeville acts from Broadway theaters, will make up a bill which has seldom been seen in any single performance in Oakland. Not the least of these will be Robert Warwick, who is coming from the east to open an engagement at the Fulton and will reach Oakland a week earlier than he planned in order to present an act for the Press Club show.

Bill Montana, famed wrestler, sporting character and now referred to as "the beauty of the screen," will offer a one act play, "Life in the Studio," in conjunction with the Community orchestra, led by Glenn H. A Physician Forced to Quit Home in Terror

LOS ANGELES, March 22.—Dr. A. B. Ross, prominent physician, placed his fashionable Wilshire home on the market today because of the nervous condition of members of his family, who have been subjected to a campaign of terrorism by unknown persons.

The affair dates back 18 months, in which time there have been seven burglaries; nightly bombardment of the house with bricks and mud; daylight housebreaking, in which the two children were locked in closets; killing of a valuable watch dog and many threats over the telephone.

Dr. Ross says he can give no cause for the trouble. Police have been notified on each occasion and have surrounded the house several times, but have learned nothing.

The perpetrators never put in an appearance until they were sure the physician was away from home and the other members of the family alone in the house.

S. F. Woman Charges Robbery, Stabbing

SAN FRANCISCO, March 22.—Mrs. Louise Grove, 50, of 1412-A Scott street, rushed into the fire house on Geary street, around the corner from her home, early today and cried that burglars were in the house. Two officers searched the premises, finding no one.

A half hour later, with blood streaming from a gash in her face the woman again appeared and said that she had been stabbed by a negro. She declared that she had jumped out of a window in order to avoid him. The police made a second investigation but could find no evidence of any person in the place. Mrs. Grove was taken to the Central Emergency hospital and held for an examination as to her mental condition.

WHISKY JOHNS IN BOOZE RAIDS

Rum Jennies Have Sex Rival in 'Knock-Over' Gangs of Liquor Runners.

TACOMA, Wash., March 22.—(By Associated Press.)—Whisky Johns and Rum Jennies, hijackers and hiliars, are bounding along the waters of British Columbia along the incoming boundary line of the United States, according to a special dispatch to the Tacoma Ledger last night.

There is no sex distinction. Women are following close on the heels of the men in rum-running ventures and nearly 25 percent of the trips made with cargoes of liquid refreshments are engineered by women or have women indirectly associated with them.

During the past week a small boat was "knocked over" in the Gulf of Georgia, close to San Juan Island, thirty cases of liquor taken, and the leader of the "knockover" gang was a woman.

MAID OF JUST RAIDS.

Hailing the rum runner, the maid of the midnight mist gradually worked her speed boat alongside the liquor carrier until gunwale met gunwale, then the fireworks commenced.

The maid leaped from her boat to the deck of the carrier, collided with the owner of the runner in such a manner that she had to be supported. So engrossed was the young skipper in assisting the young lady to keep her feet that he failed to notice two men from the other boat to the deck by his side until it was too late. One covered the engineer with his revolver while the other commenced to move the cases of whisky from one boat to the other.

The owner of the cargo, seeing that he was duped, reached for his "gat" only to find the young lady, who was launched against him in jumping to his boat, had quietly removed the gun and was standing guard over him.

CHATTED AND MENACED.

With exasperating innocence the young lady carried on a conversation with her captive, never taking her hand from the sixshooter or lowering her eyes.

There was no disputing the fact that she was first in command and her decrees did nothing but follow instructions.

"Better take his olskink! I need one; I lost mine overboard last trip," she commanded, as the last case of liquor was transferred.

Backed away from the owner of the cargo, the young lady held him under cover until she had safely negotiated the jump to her own boat, and then tossing a kiss from the end of her fingers, she and her boat melted and dissolved in the darkness.

Man Dies During Fire in Mattress

MIAMI, Fla., March 22.—(By International News Service.)—Police today were guarding the fire-ravaged room of a hotel in Miami, where a man died early today under circumstances which officers believe indicate suffocation, following the burning of a mattress in his bed, which apparently had caught fire from a lighted pipe. Several empty whisky bottles were said to have been found on the floor.

WINE ORDERED RETURNED TO CONGREGATION

The members of the congregation Beth Israel at Ninth and West streets will have their full supply of sacramental wine for the celebration of a church festival on Sunday. Their entire store of rare vintages valued at $3000 was seized by prohibition officers several days ago, and Rabbi Rachin Bahr of 1023 Twentieth street, was taken into custody, charged with the sale and possession of liquor. At the same time the officers arrested a retired Rabbi, Max Koplan, and an automobile was seized.

Today in the Federal court in San Francisco, Attorney Leo Friedman succeeded in convincing U. S. Judge Partridge that the wine was the property of the congregation and that the members were entitled to have it back for the ceremonies on the festive occasion next Sunday. Apparently the U. S. Attorney's office similarly believed that an injustice had been done, and the wine was ordered returned.

It is believed that this move will weaken the case against Rabbi Bahr and Rabbi Koplan, although the government retained ample samples of the wine as evidence.

COURT DISRATES TRAFFIC COPS

SAN FRANCISCO, March 22.—"Traffic officers appointed by supervisors in California counties have no right to collect compensation from the counties," the state supreme court ruled yesterday in refusing to issue a writ of mandamus to compel the county and city of San Mateo to approve the pay warrant of James B. Logan, traffic officer of San Mateo county.

The court held that the supervisors of San Mateo county were without right to create the office of traffic officer, the power to create such offices being reserved for the legislature by the state constitution.

Power to regulate traffic on the highways, the court held, was vested in the state, and the right to exercise state authority therefore, must be conferred by the legislature.

Owing to the decision of the Supreme court, county traffic officers today have quit work to await further developments that will make their positions legal, according to a statement coming from A. A. Morrison, head of the California Highway Patrolmen.

This action follows the ruling of the court in the case of James B. Logan, San Mateo officer, who sued the supervisors of the county for two months' back pay. Morrison says. Decision was rendered in favor of the county, the court declaring that the office of county traffic officer was void, according to Morrison's statement.

SAVOR DROWNED IN RESCUE

WITNESSES TELL HOW RAIL STRIKE ENDS IN ARKANSAS

Citizens Deny All Knowledge of Identity of Lynchers, Fear Invasion.

By JACK CARBERRY International News Service Staff HARRISON, Ark., March 22.—Hope for an early end of the open hearing by a joint House and Senate committee into the acts of citizens here last January toward striking railway men of the Missouri & North Arkansas railroad was held today. Although more than a hundred witnesses—members of citizens' committees from the towns and villages along the railroad route—still remain to be heard, legislators expressed the belief that the situation probably would close tomorrow. It may be that before their formal findings are made public.

Today's testimony was simply a repetition of the story told by every witness during the three-day investigation—an admission that citizens armed with pistols, arms, guns and rifles, banded together to rid North Arkansas of strikers after railroad bridges had been burned, engines crippled and operation of the road suspended.

Denial that strikers had been injured or abused and of knowledge of identity of the lynchers of E. C. Gregory, a striker, were the only other bits of testimony.

Fear continued to be expressed throughout the district of reprisals by strikers against citizens, and against such acts, citizens' army of 350 continued on guard duty, equipped with rifles, pistols and machine guns.

LEONARD R. STEEL, DARING PROMOTER DIES ON TRAIN

Organizer of $20,000,000 Enterprise Expires During the Probe of Mixed Affairs.

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 22.—(By the Associated Press.)—Leonard R. Steel, founder of the L. R. Steel Corporation, which went into receivership on March 3, died early today on a train en route to Chicago. Heart disease was the cause of death.

Steel's sudden death came on the eve of investigations into the stock of his corporations by county and state authorities. Carl Sherman, state attorney-general, yesterday notified the receivers that he desired to make a thorough examination of the books of the various Steel corporations, and District Attorney Guy B. Moore announced last night that on account of reports of gross extravagance in the handling of $20,000,000 invested by 50,000 stockholders he would join in the inquiry. Federal agents also are in touch with the receivers, but have taken no action.

Starting with a small capital in 1912, Steel personally directing advertising and stock selling campaigns, disposed of more than $20,000,000 in L. R. Steel incorporated, and its various subsidiaries. As the money poured in new corporations were founded, chief among them being the L. R. Steel Service Corporation, which had to do with stock sales; the L. R. Steel Realty Development, handling all leases and real estate owned by the various branches and other interlocking corporations, both in the United States and Canada.

Steel, his former associates say, ruled the policies and districts of the house of Steel with a high hand. Any suggestion from a subordinate in opposition to Steel's plans for expansion resulted in immediate dismissal. It was said.

Steel's enterprises were purchased by the Federal Reserve Bank, and were alleged to be expropriated, real estate and cafeterias were opened and run at a loss; a large sum was invested in a coal mine and about $180,000 was spent in exploiting a permanent international exposition at Niagara Falls before the enterprise had gone beyond the blue-print stage.

Bootlegger Trap To Capture Game

STOCKTON, March 22.—Mysteries attending the establishment of a camp for 700 men at Oakland were exploded yesterday when it was revealed as an elaborate setting for the expected wholesale arrests by federal prohibition officers. No arrests were made, because some one gave the trap away.

It had been announced that the camp was being laid out for employees of the Western Engineering company. When one of the putative engineers was seen fraternizing with men suspected by local officers of being bootleggers the news spread rapidly, with the result that the bottom fell out of the scheme. "The Western Engineering company" then pulled up stakes and left. The Oakland city trustees, however, were furnished with a list of moonshiner suspects by one of the "engineers."

Burro Motor Boosts Transit To City Camp

A new transportation line has been added to the vast resources of the city of Oakland.

Advices received from the municipal summer camp, in the high Sierra, announce the establishment of a one-burro rapid transit system, acquired by the city of Oakland at more or less expense. The new system operates daily between the municipal camp at South Fork and the school house at Buck Meadows, nearly five miles away.

Elmer Bayers, ward of the recreation department, has the transportation system daily, according to advices received from Charlie Christensen, custodian of the camp. Once in a while the transportation system wanders off the usual right-of-way and is found later in the hills, but so far there have been no permanent cases of A. W. O. L. by the rapid transit system.

According to Christensen, the new transportation system has a fairly good temper and stays put except on occasional streaks of temper. It will be used during the summer by children. It will not be driven but is said to be quite reliable under saddle.

The system has established a record of five miles in 50 minutes when started and when going downhill. Playground officials assert that the affair is "worthy of considerable study."

Christensen reported that the Big Oak Flat road to Yosemite was in splendid condition, without much mud, but this was several days ago.

WOMEN WARNED TO KEEP PLACE AS HOME HEADS

Invasion of Industrial Field Will Be Tragedy, Says Detroit Man.

Women's invasion of the industrial field would be a tragedy, declared Dr. Augustus P. Record, of Detroit, in an address at the noon luncheon of the Women's Business and Professional club today, if it is to involve participation in the mad scramble after place or pelf or power which has characterized the activities of men in that same field.

From the beginning of human history men have been the producers, the hunters, the fighters, the bread winners, and the masculine virtues have been largely competitive," he said. "Everyone for himself and the devil take the hindmost has been the slogan. Even our religion has been influenced by this situation. Heaven has been a place where there would be rest for the weary and escape from life's ceaseless competition and strife.

Women, on the contrary, have from the beginning, been the homemakers, the conservers, whose chief concern has been to build up a secure and fit environment for themselves and their children here upon the earth. Service has been their motto. Self sacrifice has been their religion. To introduce these new motives into our industrial life and to soften and ameliorate the harsh competitions of the industrial world is their privilege.

Probe of State's School System by Commission Urged

TRIBUNE BUREAU, SACRAMENTO, March 22.—Assemblyman Stow today introduced a bill which would authorize the governor to name a commission for the purpose of making a survey of the educational system of California and to draw up a program recommending changes in that system.

Stow said in introducing his bill that his object is to keep professional educators off the committee and to have it composed exclusively of people of a practical turn of mind, who have given much study to educational questions.

The committee is to consist of a representative each of the State Bankers' Association, the State Federation of Labor, Bar Association, University of California, Stanford University, Federation of Women's Clubs, and Wara Bureau. The bill makes an appropriation of $10,000 for the expenses of the committee.

FUNDS OF PUBLIC ESTATES TO BE PLACED IN TRUST

Court Signs Order to Transfer Moneys From Custody of County Treasurer.

After two years of effort Superior Judge E. C. Robinson today signed an order whereby the estate funds held by the public administrator will be transferred from the care and custody of the county treasurer to the custody of the public administrator, there to draw interest pending the settlement of the estates.

The idea, which originated with Judge Robinson is based on the fact that there are two laws covering the subject. Under one law estate moneys may be deposited in the custody of the public administrator are deposited with the county treasurer. The county is allowed 1 per cent interest on these funds. The county pays for the semi-annual publication of the report of receipts and disbursements of the public administrator.

Under the banking act, the provision of which has been taken advantage of by Judge Robinson's order, the moneys may be deposited in any trust company having its principal place of business in the county seat. There are three such banks in Oakland, it was pointed out today.

A money writer Ellaverson, representing the public administrator, estimated today that the amount of money on hand in such estates is approximately $150,000. On this money, when it is deposited in the trust companies, interest of 2 per cent will be paid.

Judge Robinson refused to sign the order until the banks had agreed that each institution in which funds were deposited would bear its share of the expense of making the semi-annual report of the public administrator.

Judge Robinson pointed out that his order will result in interest money being paid the widows and orphans who are heirs to the estate and at the same time the county will be saved the cost of the publication of the report.

The alleged eccentric habits of William Shannan, who left a $50,000 estate is the subject of litigation in Superior Judge Robinson's court, with Thomas W. Shannan, a nephew, bringing suit to break the Shannan will, which left the bulk of the estate to a sister, Mrs. Sara Dornan of Ohio, was testified to by Mrs. Paige D. Ritter today.

Mrs. Ritter testified that Shannan boarded with her at 810 Thirtieth street, following his wife's death. She stated that he appeared to be afraid to be alone for any period of time, and that he was nervous and easily excited. He would arise at 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning, make a dash for the bathroom and shave, the witness declared. She also stated that he had an abnormal appetite, and that on several occasions, after he had eaten much and three other persons at the table, he would fall into a stupor. At such times his eyes would be distended and his face purple and swollen, according to the witness.

The witness testified that Shannan drank heavily, and enumerated the liquors of which she had seen him partake as pure alcohol, wine and whisky. She said that he would walk up and down waving his hands and shouting, "I am a free man, I am a free man."

Mrs. Ritter stated that Shannan had a formula which she often had given for him at a drug store, and that he would make a dash for the medicine in great quantities, claiming that it counteracted his alcoholic condition.

The cross-examination of Mrs. Ritter produced the following results: Between the defendant and the witness, Mrs. Ritter and James C. Harris charged that Attorney Myron Harris was attempting to intimidate the witness by asking his first and abiding at her. Judge Robinson directed the attorney to proceed, "frightening them that he would grant the witness all protection needed."

Harris brought out under cross-examination that Mrs. Ritter, while giving the Shannan estate for a claim against it, which has been rejected by the executor.

THURSDAY, MARCH 22, 1923

AFTER TWO CONVENTIONS.

San Francisco is opening a campaign to bring the two great political conventions of 1924 to that city. It is a campaign which, if carried out in the true San Francisco spirit, has every prospect for success.

There is an old saying in the Orient, "let the guest speak of your hospitality." Perhaps San Francisco, as the host, strains a bit on the strings which limit that position when she emphasizes abroad her evident and often-proven claims, but most certainly she speaks by the book and of the record.

The delegates to the Democratic convention in 1920 and to the great Shrine convention will attest to the hospitality of San Francisco and California. The eyes of the whole country are on this state as the most prosperous and the most rapidly developing one in the Union. There is a disposition on the part of the Easterner and the man of the Middle West to see California and the invitation of San Francisco will carry a strong and individual appeal.

The efforts to secure the conventions will be strengthened if an idea of the entire Bay community is presented to those who are to make the selection. The Eastbay helped house delegates to the Democratic convention and is ready to help again. The delegates should know they are being invited to a community of more than one million persons for this knowledge will further two purposes. It will help bring the conventions to San Francisco and it will give the correct impression of the San Francisco Bay cities to representative men of every state in the Union. No city has more to offer as a convention center than San Francisco; no state has more to offer than California.

STILL WAITING.

France, with an army in the Ruhr, delays in ratifying the Four-Power Treaty for the limitation of armament. It is not probable she ever will ratify it.

The world will understand the reasons for French insistence that the treaty be modified, will realize that a country engaged in an undertaking which may mean war at any time is not going to cease preparing for battle. Yet this delay and this failure to recognize the first real world movement toward disarmament means the passing of a great opportunity. It may be long before there will be such another.

The time was ripe for an understanding upon armaments when the conference at Washington agreed as to the terms of the pact. It was still ripe when the United States Senate gave its approval and when Japan agreed. The long wait for French action has dulled enthusiasm. There is every indication England and Japan have decided that it is futile to expect ratification from France and that the treaty is regarded, already, as an interesting item in recent history.

Very soon France will have to go on record in the matter. Her position will be shown by the character of the reservations she proposes.

LOOK TO CALIFORNIA.

Every important city in the central and northern part of California has received from 100 to 200 per cent more inquiries at their Chambers of Commerce since Californians, Inc., launched their advertising campaign, according to the director of that organization. There is no question of the greater national interest in this State and of the part played by the San Francisco organization in arousing

On the trade maps of the country California has stood out while from one end to the other. Business here has been better than anywhere else, just as the climate here is best. Coast branch managerships and sales agencies are at a premium. Everywhere men want to come to California.

The organized campaigns of Californians, Inc., has come at the right time. This group with the information concerning the state and every county in the State. It receives and answers one hundred letters a day. There is no way of checking up just how many families have been brought to the State through the efforts of the organization, except by the response to its advertising. Close to one hundred thousand letters have been received since the national advertising was started. Twenty-eight hundred have been answered this month.

Those who inquire about California are given the facts. They are not regaled with glowing predictions nor roseate visions. Indeed, the conspicuous feature of the plan is its recognition of the fact that men who are thinking of moving their homes and their businesses desire authentic and practical information.

DAMPER FOR RAIN MAKERS.

The United States Weather Bureau has piled up statistics on the hopes of the rain makers, it has dampened their enthusiasm. The efforts of the witch-doctor, the Hatfields, and the latest scientists who have practiced shooting at clouds with magnetized sand are said to be futile.

Perhaps a man may pick out a large sized and well burdened cloud and, with persistence and sand, make it loose a passing shower. The trouble is, rain clouds do not, as a rule, hover over places experiencing droughts. To produce one inch of rain over an area of one acre, the Bureau says, approximately 113 tons of moisture would have to be drawn up into the air and then precipitated. A square mile would take 72,320 tons.

For all of the Weather Bureau's pronouncement the rain argument will continue. Those who have lived in the Middle West or the Northwest know that in the dry seasons when rain would mean a saving of great wealth, it is not uncommon for huge thunderheads, black and tumbled clouds, to arise on the western horizon and move with their promise of rain across the skies. Then it is the farmers watch and hope and, time after time, the threat and the promise of rain scuds overhead without a drop falling.

There is the opportunity for the rain maker. If he peppers these clouds and the showers fall, who shall say he is not responsible? The doubters will claim it would have rained in all events, the rain maker will collect his fee, and the crops will grow. Everything will have been settled satisfactorily except the argument.

TASK NEAR COMPLETION.

To the party of distinguished Mexicans now in New York may fall the honor of winning for their country the recognition of the United States. The Mexican Mission will take up with the Committee of International Bankers the final details in connection with debt agreement entered into some months ago between the Mexican Government and the Committee.

It is announced that the initial technical revision of necessary papers is progressing smoothly and that an early settlement is in prospect. Headed by Roberto Casas Alatriste, Financial Sub-Agent for Mexico, the Mission includes E. S. A. de Lima, banker; Palacios Maceda, consulting attorney of the Secretary of the Treasury, and Ollallo Rubio, private secretary to Adolfo de la Huerta, Secretary of the Treasury.

Should this Mission succeed in its task, and Chairman Alatriste expresses confidence they will, Mexico's service of its foreign debt will be resumed and a new era in its financial history will be opened. An early result will be formal recognition and immediate beneficial effects to trade.

With the President fishing in Cocobola Bay and the fishing being none too good, there is opportunity for a song writer to stagger the world with the "Cocobola Blues."

So far as one is able to observe Anti-Flirt Week passed by without any noticeable observations.

NATIONAL TOWN MEETINGS.

When the founders of this republic established the meeting of the people's representatives after their election they were influenced not only by their distaste for the small, quarrelsome and ephemeral democracies of classic times but by the bad communications existing throughout the country. It was manifestly impossible for the people to meet and govern themselves directly. Therefore it was decided to establish a system of communication by which the people could be brought into contact with their representatives.

The long-distance telephone and the radio broadcasting station are bringing the people intimately together regardless of the intervening broad spaces.

Gen. John J. Carter, vice-president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company and the nation's leading authority on long-distance communication, by the spoken word, in his address last week before the Commercial club of Chicago announced that it was possible for a speaker with the aid of modern appliances to make his voice heard to an assembled audience at least as large as the entire population of Chicago. Further, by the use of similar appliances judiciously distributed the speaker could address directly at one time all the inhabitants of the United States, provided they were gathered into huge audiences or otherwise brought within range of the amplifiers.

By way of demonstrating the possibilities, Gen. Carter caused his audience to hear the voice of a man in Havana, Cuba, conversing with a man in San Francisco, and both conversing with him. He also brought into the conversation nearly a score of other persons scattered parts of the United States from Key West to Sacramento.

It is readily believed that candidates for president of the United States in the next national campaign will address at the same instant a multitude of large audiences assembled in various cities, thus spreading their views from coast to coast by word of mouth while sitting at home. Further, the people soon will be able to hold nationwide conferences without leaving their own communities, long-distance communication having already annihilated space. These facilities for nationwide counsel must have important results when full advantage is taken of them. —Chicago Daily News.

"I was astonished four days later to receive a cable from the Bureau of Intelligence in Madrid which told of the assassination of my friend, the Chief of Intelligence, on the same day I had been attacked. The cable was signed 'Donna Margarita'."

"Ten years later Disbosa, the Chief of Intelligence who had succeeded my friend, came to New York on a tour. I was on the reception committee which greeted him."

"I recognized him unmistakably as the man who had assaulted me."

So much for my story. There it is as I wrote it some time ago in my autobiography. I might add that I spent several years trying to recoup sufficient of my own personal fortune, which was shattered in the Civil War, to make good to Donna Margarita the money which had been lost to her through my foolishness in the face of danger.

I was still short of attaining my goal, however, when I read of the Donna's death, and under the circumstances I do not feel under any obligation to reimburse her heirs.

CAPT. PETER FITZURSE.

This seems to us a sufficient answer.

A cockroach 74 years old has been found in a safe in Atchison, Mo. Atchison claims that it is 74 years old. We referred this matter to Archy and he informed us:

I doubt if that is really a cockroach. It sounds to me more like an Egyptian scarab. Cockroaches do not live that long as a rule. I am the oldest cockroach I know and I am only sixty-three years next Michaelmas that is in my present incarnation.

The entomological department seems to be going strong today. We have just received the following letter from one signing himself "Minnie the Moth":

Sir: As a member of the Ancient and Honorable Order of Trash Destroyers I want to register a protest against the treatment I and my sister moths are receiving at the hands of the unfeeling public. It is hard for me to write, as I am still weak from an acute attack of cold. Some doctors might call it pneumonia, poisoning, but when doubled up with pain I was in a position to know it was cold.

The attack was caused by my eating one of those printed wool blouses the women are wearing at present. I thought it would taste like a club sandwich, but it did not. I tasted like Hell.

I had to eat through seven canaries, a clump of palms, an oasis, two funeral barges, a pair of incinerary urns, fourteen scarabs, a foot and a half of dancing girls and King Tut, represented alive and dead, before I could get wool enough into my system to keep me alive.

Only the week before I was taken with frightful cramps after breakfasting on a Bulik costume decorated with elephants, temple bells, passion flowers and scarlet, orange and blue right angles.

This craze for barbaric patterns is an outrage on our taste and digestion. When you stop to realize the service we render in ridding the wardrobe of fusty old suits, ancestral mink capes, last year's styles, etc. and etc., that would be practically impossible to dispose of but for our assistance, you will see that this heartless injustice in the use of color and dye will act as a homering upon womankind.

Members of our union will henceforth confine themselves to the consumption of plain serge, chevot, tweed, broadcloth and all but synthetic furs and will refuse absolutely to risk their lives by attacking Batik, Oriental patterns, tied-and-dyed work or any material defaced by a design containing more than ten varieties of flowers, one-half dozen animals or four main dishes, mammals or North plants to the square foot.

Yours for the return of restraint,

Without Leaving Home.
Sir: Maybe these fellows with their fifty-dollar radio outfits think they are good when they can get some place two thousand miles away, but I got in at four-thirty last night and got hell without any outfit.

We see by the papers that Lenin and Trotsky are both afflicted with some devastating disease. What ever it is, it will probably run into longevity.

MAKING OUR DESERT LANDS BLOOM.

EXCERPTS from the NATIONAL PRESS

Christian Science Monitor: "Recent 'stock-taking' by the members of the graduating classes of Amherst College, Amherst, Mass., from 1925 to 1926 shows that ten of the eleven men picked by these classes, from their records while in college, as most likely to climb to the top of the ladder of achievement, have actually arrived there, in accordance with the forecasts of their associates. This fact throws an interesting sidelight on the contention of those who hold that college education does not make for success, though incidentally, Calvin Coolidge, who was graduated in 1905, was not regarded as a likely prospect."

New York Evening Post: "The controversy waged by and around Dr. Percy Stickney Grant has been specifically a controversy over faith and creed in the churches. But it is a safe conjecture that in the public mind the issue has widened so as to embrace the question of the churches as a factor in modern life. As Dr. Grant's adherents see it, it is a quarrel between a fluid, living creed adapting itself to changing knowledge and circumstance and a creed supposedly fixed in a rigid perpetuity. From that it is the popular conclusion that the church with a mobile creed is the church operating as a social force."

Brooklyn Eagle: "People who have imagined that practically all France was behind the Poincare Ruhr policy, must have their doubts when General Sarrahl, who commanded the Allied troops in the Near East, denounces the whole thing as vigorously as Jean Longuet ever denounced it. That all Gaul is divided in three parts after the greatest is neutrally observed is a reasonable conclusion."

Chicago Tribune: "Persons who have been, and are still, worrying about the 'ruhr' question, may be relieved to learn that the price of cotton has fallen to the point where it is no longer a factor."

Brooklyn Eagle: "That Oklahoma bill to examine and license editors, copy-righters and reporters is at least interesting. But who is qualified to do the examining? What politicians do not know about newspaper making would fit, as the Yankers say, a large sized Webster's unabridged."

New York Sun: "Whatever happened to Mira Ceti to make that bright star flash so brilliantly now was over eighty years or so before we knew anything about it. It takes even longer to get the point of some witty flashes right on our own planet."

Roson Transcript: "Senator (Jim) Hiram Lewis thinks we are going to have war in a month, which will be disappointing news for those who have been hoping that it would come this week."

Kansas City Star: "Senator La Follette's committee says Standard Oil is preparing to send the price of gasoline to a dollar a gallon. But the Standard Oil company says there is no such plan."

Location at which famous California races were bred and trained. The improvements on the property aggregated $37,000. There are 350 acres of valley land, in addition to a large amount of fruit acreage. The ranch was purchased by Capt. Grant Avery and King C. Wellman, and the consideration was around $100,000.—Oakland Press.

Maybe it is too early yet to form the right conclusions. Nevertheless, indications so far are the so-called economy scheme of the new State administration is not economy at all, but merely a shifting of expenses from State onto counties. If that proves the case when the final answer is ascertained, then the voters will have been disappointed in their hopes.—Palo Alto Times.

One of the strangest political tendencies of our time is the sudden, unexplained faith of legislators in the power of laws to enforce themselves once they are reduced to writing. No belief has been so continuously discredited, yet none is so alarmingly alive. Every political philosopher from Montaigne's day to this hour has recognized that the best government is that conducted with the least law and machinery.—San Bernardino Sun.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE DICTIONARY.
The dictionary's full of words
Which run from A to Z.
For any man to choose and use
In prose or melody.

The stories of the world are there,
The songs which men shall sing.
The books of ages yet unborn,
And many a tender thing.

The jest lies sleeping on a page,
The sermon waits a voice.
The poem waits an artist's call,
An artist's lovely choice.

It is the color box of speech,
With all its various hues,
Wherein are found the little rages
That all who paint must use.

And one man splashes red and blue,
And darts his canvas seems,
While one with deft and subtle touch
Can give the world his dreams.

So stands the dictionary there,
With words piled, row on row,
Waiting the teller of the tale
To set them all aflow.

UPON MY TABLE.
Two leaves that vases appear—
My eyes half fill with tears.
Yesterday that stem untwined
A bud that slowly came
To cheer my rooms. Today a rose
That, pining in its heart of flame,
Tomorrow to the dustman goes.

COSTS OF SCHOOLS.
It costs $1000 to educate a boy through twelve years of elementary and high school, according to a report on education in California just submitted by Assistant Superintendent of Schools Lewis B. Avery.

Avery, who has summarized various figures on schools for the present year, has made but the following short report:
California ranks first in per cent of population from 14 to 15 years found in high schools.
California is fourth in per capita cost of instruction, but eighteenth in amount spent on schools for each hundred dollars of taxable wealth.
In average value of school property per pupil, California is eighth.
In per cent of literacy in population over 19 years, California is twelfth.

As much money was spent in automobile accessories in California in 1920 as was spent upon the entire state school system.—Oroville Register.

ENGAGEMENT SECRET.
Announcing an engagement by writing the names of the persons concerned on a slip of paper and hiding it in the sandwiches to be served at a party, may be a unique way of heralding the event, but one El Dorado hostess who tried it is not so sure it was a success. When the guests bit into the paper, they evidently thought it had been accidentally mixed with the sandwich filling and thinking to save their hosts from mortification, they chewed the little announcements until they were exactly the right consistency for paper wads.—Jennie S. Owen in El Dorado Times.

The sage who said a man's best friend was the mirror who told him his faults must have been thinking of wives.—San Bernardino Sun.

THE FORUM

The editor of THE TRIBUNE declines to accept of current topics of general interest are welcome. They will not be published unless accompanied by the name of the writer, which, if desired, will be withheld from publication.

"FOREIGN AFFAIRS."

To the Editor of THE TRIBUNE:

We are strongly of the belief that there is a need in the United States today for a review where competent authorities may lay before the people their views on the international aspects of America's political, economic and financial problems.

We ask the privilege of calling the public's attention, through your columns, to "Foreign Affairs," the American quarterly review recently founded on a non-profit making basis by the Council on Foreign Relations in New York.

"Foreign Affairs" is not the organ of any one party or school of thought. It welcomes articles from men holding widely different opinions, demanding only that they be sincerely and ably written and based on trustworthy information. In addition to its leading articles, "Foreign Affairs" provides a bibliography of recent books in the international field, an index of reference material for students and writers, and a list of treaties and trade agreements for the increasing number of American business men who find their work affected by conditions abroad.

The very high standard of variety and interest set by the editor of "Foreign Affairs," Archibald Cary Coolidge of Harvard University, is shown by a list of the contributors to the two issues already published. Among these contributors have been General Tasker H. Bliss, Dr. Charles E. Eliot, Joseph Calliaux, Andre Tardieu, John Foster Dulles, Premier Eduard Benes, Philip Kerr, Karl Kautsky, Charles H. Inskins, Ernest Boyd, Josef Redlich and other students of international affairs of equal importance.

We feel sure you will agree with us that the establishment of an American review such as "Foreign Affairs," ably written and ably edited, is a public service of the highest importance and merits wide support. We have no hesitation in recommending it strongly to all those who are interested in the development of a reasoned American foreign policy.

JOHN W. DAVIS,
President, Council on Foreign Relations.

A PIONEER.

To the Editor of THE TRIBUNE:
In the death of Mrs. Susan C. Clark, on March 12, 1923, California has lost one of its earliest pioneer women.

Coming to California 75 years ago with her brother, when a girl of 18, by way of Isthmus of Panama, Mrs. Clark experienced many hardships.

She was the sister-in-law of Horace A. Russell, a San Francisco policeman, who made the final capture of "Cora" of the "Cora and Casey" fame of early days.

She was the wife of the late Judson H. Clark, pioneer cracker baker, a native of New Jersey, and 88 years old.

She leaves four children—Geo. L. Clark, San Francisco; Mrs. Geo. Fairchild, San Francisco; Mrs. Jennie Brown, Berkeley, and Mrs. Henry Gortler, Oakland.

SHE'S A WOMAN OF LETTERS—Betty Compson, Paramount star is shown indicating the initials of love-lorn admirers carved in the trunk of a tree in one of Hawaii's many Lover's Lanes. This picture was taken while "The White Flower" was being filmed. Betty is bedecked with ginger flower "lei."

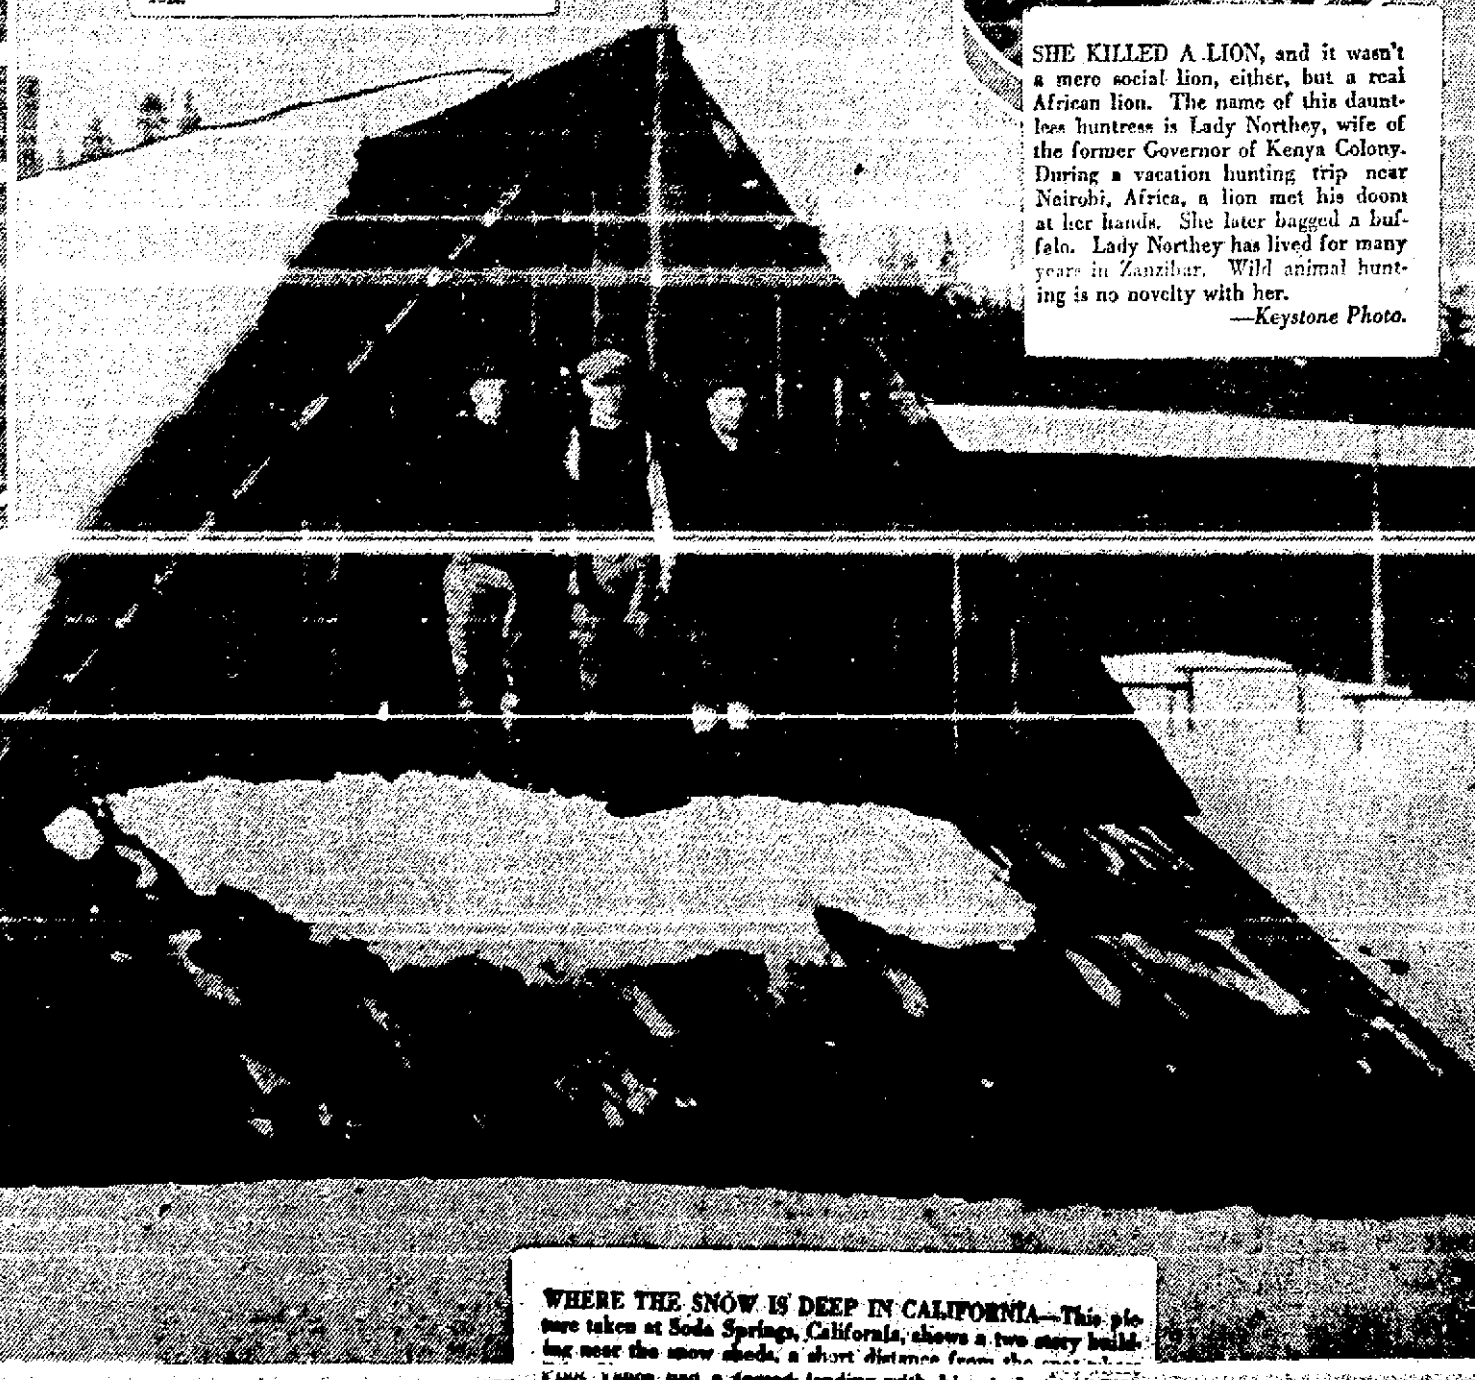

SHE KILLED A LION, and it wasn't a mere social lion, either, but a real African lion. The name of this dauntless huntress is Lady Northey, wife of the former Governor of Kenya Colony. During a vacation hunting trip near Nairobi, Africa, a lion met his doom at her hands. She later bagged a buffalo. Lady Northey has lived for many years in Zanzibar. Wild animal hunting is no novelty with her.

THIS WOULD HAVE BEEN A COSTLY DRESS, ONCE—On the Continent the mark doesn't mean a thing and it is being used as a paper to cover walls, wrap up commodities, etc. Here is an original costume, taken at a masquerade in Amsterdam, Holland. Missionite Tossers Who Bid Fair to Worry St. Mary's Santa Clara has had an admittedly poor early season. Defeated twice by Stanford and once by California, not to mention various and sundry other teams, the men of Coach Joe Sneeze are all set to do a little dope spilling when they meet St. Mary's in a three-game series in April. Santa Clara has a veteran team with many familiar faces in the line-up. The squad shown here consists of the following: (Top row), left to right: COACH AURECOCHEA, TOSO, HEINZMAN, JOHN LOGAN, KAUFMAN, NOLAN, PENDERGAST. (Middle row), left to right: CLANCY, FAWKE, FITZPATRICK, HANDBERG, RANDAZZO, KELLY. (Lower row), left to right: JIM LOGAN, BEDOLLA (captain), YUKOTA, MARQUES, NOCK. A couple of the heavy Mission stickers are shown below. CLANCY, waving the war club from the right side, is shown at the left, while RANDAZZO, is the gentleman swinging from the portside.

CHET THOMAS LOOKS FOR MARVIN SMITH TO GO UP NEXT SEASON

Local Club Will Present Fastest Infield Since Days of Clyde Wares and Geo. Cutshaw; Tonsillitis Causes Worry as to Mails Being Ready.

By EDDIE MURPHY.

OAKS' TRAINING CAMP, Myrtledale Springs, March 22.—A big league job for Marvin Smith, the Oaks' tomato-haired shortstop, is the prediction of Chester Thomas, former American League catcher who will work behind the plate for the local club this season. Thomas put in thirteen seasons as a professional ball player, and has watched dozens of infielders step into and fall from the major leagues, so he ought to know what he is talking about. Of course, Thomas bases his prediction on the grounds that Smith keeps himself in good condition and plays the brand of ball as he has done in the training camp. The veteran catcher claims that he never saw a young fellow gifted with a more clever pair of hands and stronger throwing arm than those which hang from the shoulders of the new Oakland shortstop.

Smith has shown class in the fielding line, but he was at his best yesterday when Del Howard was bounding the horseshoe around for practice. Marvin McGaffigan was stationed on second, with Brubaker on third and Lafayette at first. Smith yesterday was suffering with a bad ankle, which he turned while he was dodging in a pepper game. In spite of that he made plays back of second base and was handling balls that got by Ray Brubaker.

Smith and McGaffigan Form Fast Combination

Smith's work around the short patch is not a mere flash in the pan. He has been here for three weeks and never has he looked bad in a workout. Oakland baseball fans are going to get a surprise when they see Smith in action. He is an expert at dodging across the diamond toward second base and scooping a ball with one hand and into the hands of the man covering second.

Jack Knight has been out of uniform for the last three days because of a cold in his back and Smith and McGaffigan have formed one of the fastest second base combinations that ever worked in the Coast League. Not since Clyde Wares and Cutshaw left the Oaks has the local club had a combination that comes near to comparing with that pair than does the one of Smith and McGaffigan. Sacramento had a wonderful combination in Billy Orr and McGaffigan. Walter Media watched Orr and McGaffigan work in many a game and he thinks that Smith and Marty should do the same kind of work. Players on the local club predict that the Oaks' infield this season, with Brubaker on third, Smith at short and McGaffigan at second, will turn in more double plays than any club in the league.

Stickwork of Smith Not Worrying Howard

Visitors in camp who watch Smith watch the first time in his holding in line about his hitting. They all seem to have the idea the new Oak will not hit hard. He hit .300 for People last season, but Ivan and Del Howard are not worrying about what he will hit. All they want him to do is to field like he has here and they will never run him out of the job around short. He can hit as low as .250 for the season and get by without much trouble. In camp he looks up as a fair hitter, getting one or two blows in every game.

In yesterday's workout, this tomato-haired athlete made plays that looked impossible. He would dash after a ball, drop his pants toward the ground, and just when somebody was about to shout that it passed through his hands, he would wing his arm toward first base and the little round ball would be on a speedy trip to that bag. He was pulling bad hops off his ears and from the back of his shoes.

Club's Chances Depend Upon Pitching Staff

If the pitching staff will come through as expected, you can win yourself a new bonnet by picking the Oaks to finish one, two or three. The infield has been tried, and has delivered in grand style. The reserve strength is one of the main assets for the Oaks this season. Jack Knight and Al Madaras are the other infielders, besides those mentioned above.

It looks like Weizel has grabbed on the regular left field job and will be out there most of the time with William Cooper. Ted Cather and Osborne Johnson can fill in at any time without weakening the chances. The catching department is better.

Ever since his attack of tonsillitis Walter Mails has been under the care of a Callistoga physician, and Manager Ivan Howard has reason to fear that Walter will not be in his best shape for the start of the race. He cannot have his tonsils removed because of a stubborn cold, and the doctor is trying to fix Walter up so he can go through the season's opening, and he is doing everything the doctor orders. He said more than a mouthful when he joked about his tonsils being the only weak spot on the ball club.

Tigers

LOS ANGELES, March 22.—The Vernon club of the Pacific Coast Baseball league is slowly rounding into shape and when the season opens, April 3, every player will be in condition, according to Manager William Essick.

No sore arms have been reported among the pitchers.

AUSTRALIA AND EUROPE IMPORT COAST LUMBER

Belgian Trade Is Brisk: Vancouver Ships 4,000,000 Feet.

Exports of lumber from the port of Vancouver during the month of January showed an increase over last year of nearly 4,000,000 feet, totaling some 18,000,000 feet, says Consul General P. W. Ryder in a report to the Department of Commerce. The mills are working full time, some with night shifts, and orders are booked for the next three months, and further business is in view for the spring and summer months. Active buying for the Atlantic coast market was experienced in the early part of January, lumber yard stocks having been purchased at attractive prices. Frequent inquiries are received from Japan to determine prices at which lumber may be ordered for shipment during the next few months. The mills have been busy with Australian and Atlantic coast business to such an extent that the usual orders for "Japanese squares" do not prove attractive or even desirable. There has been practically no new business in the export of cedar logs but a general movement of other logs is noted.

The Australian market continues to absorb quantities of lumber, the principal orders for "Japanese squares" are running to capacity three months in advance on these orders and every available ton of space on vessels operating on this run has been chartered far ahead. Even a larger volume of buying is expected from Australia and it is stated that the mills are anticipating higher prices.

The price of lumber delivered alongside of steamers is now $22.00 per thousand feet; clears $30.00, with the prospect of an advance of $1.00 or $1.50.

Occasional small lots are being sent to China, but the market here is still quiet. While prospects in the United Kingdom look bright, few sales have actually been made. Inquiries for railway ties are being received, including some from Brazil, but exporters consider this business undesirable, as the North European countries are the principal market. The timber industry of Finland, reports Consul Leslie A. Davis, Helsinki, in 1922 there had been in either of the two preceding years, each of which was a record year for the industry. The total shipments during 1922 are said to have amounted to 1,677,387,000 board feet, compared with 1,273,200,000 board feet in 1921. The total value of all Finnish lumber exports in 1922 was $59,949,000, as compared with $50,578,125 in 1921. The principal items of lumber exported during 1922 were: sawed lumber, 1,079,000,000 board feet; rough planks, battens and boards.

The year 1923 was an exceptionally good one for the lumber dealers in Antwerp after the disastrous year of 1921, according to advices received by the Lumber Division of the Department of Commerce. During 1923, importations of lumber from Sweden and Finland were very large and lumber imports built up large stocks, but with the sudden price drop in 1922, they suffered very heavy losses and importations of 1923 were not so large. During 1923, there was a very strong demand for lumber for the devastated regions of Belgium and of France. Most of the Belgian imports for France also came through the Lumber Division of the Department of Commerce. There was little change from 1922 in the importation of American lumber in the United States. Prices in the United States were firm throughout the year, but the full in the value of the Belgian franc made prices very high for Belgian consumers of American lumber. Importers did not build up any stocks, simply buying for current needs. Last spring, Consul C. R. Smith at Ghent, Belgium, encouraged the Lumber Division of the Department of Commerce this importation connected with the export of lumber from the United States. As a result of this trip the Belgian concern is now sending over another representative with a view to making important purchases of American lumber.

OIL TANKERS IN BIG DEMAND FOR ATLANTIC PORTS

Slow-Down in Mexico Puts Rush of Business On Richmond Plant.

The shortage of Mexican oil has forced a huge fleet of tankers into the California carrying field and every available vessel of this type is being utilized by the large oil concerns to handle the cargo. The increased demand and the possibility of further increases on the part of the East Coast, is tending to make California the most important oil center in the world at the present time.

Crude oil from San Pedro to New York is now quoted at $1.00 and $1.05 to Boston. This is an increase from 90 cents. The daily production because of the eastern shortage has been increased 150,000 barrels.

The Standard Oil company of New Jersey is operating 37 vessels in the intercoastal carrying service. The company has a total of 1,000,000 barrels of oil on its way to San Pedro to load.

En route to the southern California port is a fleet of oil tankers numbering 49 vessels. Of this number, the Union Oil company owns six, the Standard Oil of California owns five, the Gulf Oil company owns four, the Shell Oil company owns three, the British, Norwegian and Japanese steamers.

The bulk of the cargoes carried by the Standard Oil company of California is taken aboard the Richmond plant, which is the largest of the product is finding its way out of that port weekly.

Tankers Meeting Oil Demands

The increased demand on the California oil fields because of the failure of the Mexican fields to produce to standard, has resulted in practically every tanker available being placed in service between California and the east coast. At Richmond and San Pedro large quantities of fuel are leaving every day.

Port of Astoria Sets Record for Loading Flour

ASTORIA, Ore., March 22.—What is said to be the Pacific coast record in loading flour on a vessel was made here today when the Astoria stevedoring company, working two gangs, placed 500 long tons of flour in the hold of the American line motorship Dintel in 24 hours at the rate of eighty-one tons an hour for each gang and was made possible by the trained crews and the superior freight handling equipment at the terminals. The former coast record is understood to have been made at Tacoma and was 70 tons per hour.

Famous Organizer Dies in Victoria

VICTORIA, B. C., March 20.—Joseph Boscowitz, organizer of the Roscowitz Steamship Company and the Alaska Commercial Company, died here today at the age of 83. The funeral is to be held Friday.

Boscowitz was born in Bavaria and settled in San Francisco in the late 50's, coming here in 1862. He formed the Victoria Sealing Company, operating a fleet from here, but retired after a treaty affecting pelagic sealing came into effect. He then entered the fur business. The Alaska Commercial Company, which had its head offices in San Francisco, leased the sealing rights in the Bristol Islands.

In 1887 seven of Boscowitz's vessels were seized on the contention that the Behning Sea was closed to sealing. The final award on this matter made in Paris was in his favor.

X-Ray DIAGRAM

of your Easter Suit

-as tailored
by Foreman
& Clark Mfg.
Company - 85
Fifth Ave. N.Y.

The X-Ray Diagram is published at this particular time for an equally particular reason. Foreman and Clark prices have not gone up with the rest. We did not allow the woolen market increase to reach the purse-strings of our customers. And, contrary to all standards in the clothing industry—neither did we slack our quality. The whole truth is simply this—we have not subtracted one stitch or feature of inner construction to keep our price down. This Suit for Spring, 1923, is the greatest garment we ever produced.

How does it happen that the strongest and most advanced inner construction known to the clothing industry is not offered by the highest priced producers, nor by the leading priced makers, but by Foreman and Clark—builders of guaranteed clothes at $25, $30 and $35? Because Foreman and Clark have always been more interested in building better clothes than in charging higher prices. Because we are the largest makers-and-retailers in the men's clothing world! Because our designers have at their finger-tips the study and analysis the personal records of 500,000 retail sales a year!

Trade Upstairs

Trade Upstairs
and Save $10.

Hidden strength! The muscles of your suit! The inside body of the garment! Foreman and Clark have developed the inner construction of a suit of clothes as carefully as the outer style! Built like the muscles of the human body, this inner coat front follows any motion you make. It will walk with you, stretch with you, bend with you, twist with you—without sagging, straining or losing its smooth finish and smart style! This inner construction is exclusively a product of Foreman and Clark designers—not duplicated in any garment, produced anywhere, at any price (much less at or near our three standard prices of $25, $30 and $35!)

Remember the coast-to-coast success that makes this hand-tailoring possible in suits and topcoats at $25, $30 and $35!

Our own four New York factories! Extensive connections with fourteen of the country's foremost woolen mills! The choicest fabrics of America and England acquired at tremendous savings! 5000 garments per week built in Foreman and Clark factories, shipped to Foreman and Clark upstairs stores, sold to Foreman and Clark wearers at guaranteed $10 savings. The middleman's profits cut out and every other go-between expense eliminated! Suits and Topcoats at $25, $30 and $35 retail, which you could not buy for these prices at wholesale.

Style X-ray:

The searching light of the X-Ray thrown on Foreman and Clark Style—reveals the finest type of designing known to the merchant tailor's bench. Every Foreman and Clark designer has graduated out of the ranks of high priced custom tailors! These men create Foreman and Clark models in New York—ON Fifth Avenue—America's greatest style boulevard. They reach you day by day less than three weeks after their inception and production!

Read these 5 reasons—and you read the secret of these values:

$497,568
Saved Yearly
in Rent

These three Foreman and Clark prices are guaranteed prices. They are never marked-up to cover so-called mark-downs. We do not believe a suit is worth one price one day and another price another day. We never juggle prices! We give every man the same treatment the same value, and the same price, whether he buys at the beginning of the season or the end. In either case he gets new style (shipments made every week from our four big New York factories) at a guaranteed $10 saving over any other prices, on new OR old styles—anywhere else! That's the policy on which we build this business!

Construction X-ray:

Flood the tell-tale light of the X-ray onto Foreman and Clark inner suit construction and see each detail of the strongest, smoothest inner front known to the clothing industry!

A—Pliable Belgian canvas cost body, instead of stiff cotton canvas.

B—Genuine silver Hymo instead of loosely woven haircloth.

C—One-eighth-inch lock-stitch lapel, three fine rows of parallel threads, instead of one or two.

D—Hand-shaped, hand-felled, one-piece collar.

E—Inverted V-curve coat skeleton supporting tower area of skirt, as human muscles support the body. Counterbrace No. 1 resists up and down strain. Counterbrace No. 2 resists right and left pull. Counterbrace No. 3 resists diagonal or spiral twist.

F—Duo-stitched, triple-braced pocket—flap, double strength against sagging and tearing.

G—Combination edge and skirt stay—starts where the average stay stops.

Fabric X-ray:

Turn the X-Ray full on Foreman and Clark fabrics and you get only one answer—virgin wool! Thickly curled strands of fine, long fleece. Woven (in generous weights) into the purest worsteds, tweeds, serges, cassimers, chevots, gabardines, whipcords! Solid colors, fancy patterns, pearl stripes, chalk stripes, checks, plaids. Every pattern, every shade, every weave.
